

BRIEF REVIEW OF THE BATTLE NEWS

That the Germans have already renewed their drive against Amiens (the great British base on the railway lines running from Paris to the Channel coast) was indicated by the official report issued by the British war office today.

The report told of increasing artillery activity on both the Picardy and Flanders battle fronts and said that strong hostile attacks were developing in the Albert sector (between 17 and 18 miles northeast of Amiens), and between the Somme and Aves rivers.

The Germans have concentrated a heavy artillery fire especially at the point where the British and French armies join, which forecasts another effort to break the armies asunder.

The artillery activity extends all the way from Montdidier northward through the district lying immediately east of the British base at Amiens to the Belgian frontier.

The shelling has been especially severe in the following districts: Between the Somme and Aves rivers, at Hangard-en-Santerre (about ten miles southeast of Amiens), at Villers-Bretonneux, immediately east of Amiens, in the Ancre and Scarpe valleys, north of Bethune, and in the region of Baillieux.

The bombardments north of Bethune augur another German effort to break through the British front to the railroad position at Bethune—an operation they attempted once before but with no success. The Germans will have to advance at least four miles if they hope to get into that town but should they succeed it would be a strategic success of no mean importance. The British defenses are very strong in that sector and it is accepted as a foregone conclusion that the Germans will fail if they undertake the enterprise again.

The German line lying immediately north of Bethune represents the extreme western end of the salient that was driven into the British front from Arras. By striking southward at the tip the Germans might hope to widen the southern flank and lessen the menace from British counter blows.

Baillieux lies on the northern flank on the Flanders, salient at the edge of a series of important heights positions, which the British hold. Any German efforts in that zone would be directed westward in the direction of the British railroad position at Hazebrouck.

Frontal attacks are looked for on the Picardy front. It is the evident intention of the Germans to disregard the dangers of flanking movements against the sides of their salient and to make another desperate effort to break into Amiens.

This was the thirty-fifth day of the Grand German offensive and the fifteenth day of the Battle of Flanders.

The daring naval raid made by the British against the German submarine bases of Ostend and Zeebrugge on the Belgian coast continues to divide public interest in the war news. It is believed that concrete laden ships across the harbor mouths, and especially at the entrance of the Bruges Canal, will greatly hamper submarine operations for some time.

Garage Fire on Broadway.

About 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon fire suddenly broke out in the garage of Alonzo Terpening, in the rear of his residence at No. 254 Broadway. At the time Frank Mooney was busy under the automobile getting it ready to be placed in commission when the gasoline on the floor leaped into flames. He crawled out in a hurry and managed to get outside the garage without being burned and closed the big doors and then telephoned in an alarm to the fire department. Mooney's act of closing the doors was what helped to prevent the garage being badly damaged. The automobile was badly damaged by the fire and the woodwork in the garage was also destroyed. It is understood that there was no insurance carried by Mr. Terpening on either the car or the garage. The upper floor was not damaged.

Ploughing For War Gardens.

All over town the busy plough is at work ploughing up vacant lots for this year's war gardens.

SUBMARINE BASES BADLY DAMAGED

Raid by British Ships on Ostend and Zeebrugge Did a Large Amount of Damage on U-Boat Bases.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, April 24.—Submarine operations by the Germans will be hampered for some time as a result of the successful raids carried out against Zeebrugge and Ostend, according to information received today from Amsterdam.

Complete official reports have not yet been received but it is believed that the sinking of ships laden with concrete off the harbors of both bases will impede the passage of U-boats and make it necessary for the Germans to do much dredging before they can carry on their underwater operations with their old time freedom.

Zeebrugge is the large and the more important of the two bases and has been attacked many times by British and French airplanes.

It is reported by the Mail that two destroyers got inside of the Mole and blew up the gates of the Bruges canal lock, which the Germans had been using for submarine purposes.

This is regarded as one of the most remarkable feats of the war, as the ships had to come under the fire of German shore batteries at close range in addition to avoiding extensive mine fields.

When the lock of the canal was destroyed the ships broke away from their moorings and a considerable number of craft was carried out to sea.

The protesting ships that conveyed the "black fleet" did much damage to the German defensive positions among the sand dunes and it is reported that many shore batteries were wiped out completely.

This was the biggest offensive move that the British fleet has made since the battle of Jutland.

The British carried out their enterprise very cleverly using for their smoke screens to hide the movements. The ships were almost inside of the harbor before they were detected.

Two of the out of date cruisers that were sunk went down exactly in the middle of the passage through which the Bruges Canal enters the sea. This will be a severe handicap for the Germans for they have been in the habit of running their submarines up the canal for overhauling after operations at sea.

THEY ENLISTED AT POSTOFFICE

Last week Fred Meeker of Hoffman street, Edward Hogan of 65 West Union street, and Walter S. Burton of Utica, were accepted for service in the navy. Charles McCann of Henry street and Henry Meyers of Tilson were accepted for army service. The naval officer will be at the postoffice Friday to receive applications for enlistment in any branch of the navy service.

IN THE SERVICE OF OUR COUNTRY

CORP. PETER W. NORTON.

Co. M, 51st Pioneer Infantry, Camp Wadsworth Spartanburg, S. C. Enlisted July 16, 1911. Discharged. Re-enlisted at Camp Whitman in July, 1916.

Michael B. Carey of 57 Lindley avenue has received word of the safe arrival overseas of his son, Peter A. Carey.

Word has been received in town from Raymond F. Deyo of his safe arrival in France as a member of Company E, 366th Infantry.

Miss Kathleen Deyo of 6 St. James street, this city, has received word of the safe arrival of her brother, Raymond, in France.

Mrs. Fred Nieffer of Burt street, Saugerties, has received word that her brother, Irving Gilbert, has arrived safely somewhere in France.

James Cashdollar of Saugerties, one of the Camp Upton boys, has arrived safely in France. Private Cashdollar's father received the word on Monday.

Mrs. E. L. Elmendorf of Eddyville has received word of the safe arrival of her husband, Private E. L. Elmendorf, 302nd Sanitary Train, 366th Field Hospital, in France.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Markson have received word that their son, Dave, has arrived safely "over there." Private Markson is a member of Co. B, 366th Inf., which left Camp Upton three weeks ago today.

Private John Joyce, a son of Motorist Martin Joyce, of the Colonial line, is spending a furlough at the home of his parents on East Chester street. Private Joyce is now stationed at Camp Wadsworth.

Mr. and Mrs. James Boyd of 79 Orchard street, received a letter today from their son, Frank J. Boyd, of the 116th Field Battalion, Signal Corps, telling of his arrival in a small town somewhere in France.

Today is the anniversary of the enlistment of Ernest R. Wesley, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Wesley of 36 Oak street, who is doing his bit in the engineer corps on the U. S. S. America. He enlisted in the service of Uncle Sam April 24, 1917, for the required term of four years.

Harold B. Castner of the U. S. ship, Arkansas, his brother, J. Elmer Castner, also Wm. Kiklarin of Mississippi, a shipmate of Elmer's, spent a brief furlough at the home of Mrs. Castner, their mother, No. 97 Wyckoop Place. Both boys, the only sons of Mrs. Castner, enlisted in the U. S. navy at the outbreak of the war and speak in the highest terms of France several times and brought his mother and sister some handsome and useful souvenirs from France.

Dr. Raymond G. Sanderson, captain in the Officers' Reserve Corps, spent Tuesday night in town, returning this morning to Camp Merritt, N. J., where he has been stationed for some time. After being commissioned last fall Dr. Sanderson for some time was stationed in Washington, D. C., where he conducted laboratory work. He was afterward assigned to the laboratory at one of the large army camps in Mississippi where he remained until transferred to Camp Merritt. During his term of office as Ulster county pathologist, Dr. Sanderson made many friends throughout the county who hope he will visit Kingston again soon.

WAR REHEARSALS IN CAMP WADSWORTH

Barrage Fire With Real Shells—Hike 26 Miles in One Day—Expect to See the Real Thing Soon.

Private Andrew Worf, who is at Camp Wadsworth, has written an interesting letter of the work of the boys in training camp. He writes that for the past three weeks he has been very busy.

First it was the trenches, then a battle, then a hike, then to the range again. In the trenches we did the thing again. In the sham battle we hiked about seven miles until we came to a brook and then some of us stayed on one side and used blank cartridges and shot at the other companies.

At the range we had our packs of about 60 or 70 pounds on our backs. The first day we left here at 8 o'clock in the morning and hiked all day until 2:30 in the afternoon, a distance of about eighteen miles. We hiked 45 minutes of the first hour and had 15 minutes rest, then until noon we had a five minute rest every half hour when we had 20 minutes to eat our sandwich which was given to us in the morning.

At 2:30 o'clock we pitched our little dog tents and stopped over night. The next morning we left here at 8 in the morning and continued on to the range the same as we did the day before. We arrived about 2 o'clock and we pitched our tents again and stayed over night. We were now ready to begin our mission.

The next morning at 8 o'clock we left there again. We hiked about a mile when we were halted and given ammunition—the real stuff this time. Then we hiked a short distance, and were all placed along the edge of a wood. The woods were so thick you could not see more than ten feet ahead and you had to cut a path before you could pass through.

We were all seated nicely when all of a sudden machine guns and cannon began firing over our heads and then we received orders to advance, which we did. When we had advanced a certain distance all were ordered to lie down and then we began to shoot into the woods ahead of us.

After this was over we walked a short distance and then had lunch. After that we hiked some more until about 1:30 that afternoon and then pitched camp for the night.

The worst of this trip was the fact that it rained every time we started to pitch camp, and the nights were very cold. We slept on the ground with one blanket over us. There was a very heavy frost every morning when we awoke.

Now comes the most interesting part. At 8 o'clock the next morning we left camp again with our packs of course and started up the mountain road a distance of about two miles. We arrived there about 12:30 and at 1:15 that afternoon we were to go under a barrage fire.

We all waited eagerly to see what was going to happen and some of the boys fell asleep. 1:15 came unexpectedly and a shell whizzed overhead. And then they came with a zip. We all sat still and for four minutes steady the large shells were sailing over our heads and dropping immediately in front of us and exploding and turning up the ground. One of the shells hit a tree about a foot in diameter and cut it right down.

After four minutes the barrage was raised and we advanced under the shell fire for one minute when it stopped. Then we marched back to camp and had dinner. This regiment is the first in this country to go under a barrage fire and we have been very highly complimented on our good work in this action.

The next day was Saturday and at 8 in the morning we packed up and left camp for home. Our pace of about 4 miles per hour and were told many times to cut it down as we were going to fast for the other men in the rear. Noon time came and we had our lunch after which we resumed the march. The orders read that we should stop over night again, but we were asked if we wanted to stop over and everyone voted on going right through to camp.

It was 26 miles to camp and we did it. We hiked the whole 26 miles in 9 1/2 hours counting the rests in that time. Altogether we rested about 2 or 2 1/4 hours making the total marching time in about 7 hours. And the roads were hard sand but was real cool and firm for hiking, no perspiring. They thought that when we got back to camp we would be all tired out and ready for bed but no there was just as many passes for town as on any ordinary night.

This fact was also very highly commented upon by General O'Ryan and he wrote a very nice letter to the 105th and had it printed in the Spartanburg papers. We also hold the record for hiking now, and I believe that no other regiment in the United States had that record beaten.

Next week we go in the trenches again for three days and I guess that will almost wind up our training. We are coming north I believe within a month.

Am getting along very nicely with my signal work and now have been transferred to a new squad (same company). There are six signal men in the company and they are all together in the one squad. Tommy Devlin is one of them.

KINGSTON'S FLAG TO BE AT HALF-MAST

From Close of Present Campaign Until Next Liberty Loan Unless City Goes Over the Top in Subscribing to Liberty Loan Now.

Mayor Canfield has issued the following letter to the citizens of Kingston:

Office of the Mayor, April 24th, 1918.

Citizens of Kingston: Our President has proclaimed Friday, the twenty-sixth of April to be "Liberty Day." It is a day of financial prayer. Every one who buys a Liberty Bond offers a prayer for the safety and security of our boys. It is a day when everyone is asked to pledge our government the fullest measure of financial support. It is a day when those who can do so, should enlist themselves as workers to secure subscriptions from others.

Our country is asking for three billions of dollars, but it can use five billions. Kingston is asked for a little over one million of dollars, but the Government can use one million plus one half of a million of dollars from our city. An honor flag is awarded by the United States Treasury Department to every city subscribing its quota. If Kingston does not get its honor flag to fly to the breeze from our City Hall flagstaff, old glory will be kept at half mast there until the next Liberty Loan as an indication that patriotism is dead in Kingston. Fellow-Citizens, this can not happen. It must not happen. It will not happen. I know that our National flag and our honor flag will fly together as joint and double evidence of the loyalty of Kingston to its country, to itself and to its own.

Remember the fathers with their fears, Remember the mothers with their tears, Remember our boys who have no fears, Remember, they ask if Kingston hears.

PALMER CANFIELD, JR.,

ESCORT AND PARADE FOR LIBERTY BALL

Committee Decides to Have Demonstration When Liberty Ball and Liberty Coach Arrive Here Saturday Afternoon—Meeting at Night.

When the Liberty Ball, which is being rolled from Buffalo to New York, and the Liberty Coach, which is making the same trip, both in aid of the Liberty Loan, reach Kingston Saturday afternoon, a parade and demonstration will be held, the same as when Ulster county boys leave for National Army cantonments, and the ball and coach will be escorted to the armory where they will remain over night.

The Liberty Ball and Liberty Coach are expected to reach Saugerties at noon on Saturday, and will probably arrive in Kingston between five and six o'clock in the afternoon. The parade committee, which has had charge of the celebrations held here up to this time, held a meeting Tuesday night and decided to hold a parade similar to the parades which are being held elsewhere in the state. Details of the parade will be included in the orders of the grand marshal, which will be issued later.

Wherever the Liberty Ball and Liberty Coach have appeared, meetings have been held which have been addressed by speakers who are making the Buffalo to New York trip, and it is planned to hold this meeting on Saturday night at the high school auditorium in connection with the exhibition of the war pictures which will be shown there then.

The parade will be on Albany avenue and Broadway to the armory where the Liberty Ball and Liberty Coach will remain for the night.

ODDS AND ENDS.

Regular meeting of Woman's Guild of the Church of the Holy Spirit, Thursday at 3 p. m., at the home of Mrs. Frank Kline, 78 Highland avenue.

A delightful musical and reading will be held this evening at Temple Emanuel. At the close of the program the Hon. G. D. B. Hasbrouck will present a service flag.

The Men's Bible Class of the Fair street Reformed Church will meet Friday evening at the home of James Van Keuren on Lucas avenue. It is hoped that there will be a large attendance.

The ladies who meet at No. 6 School to do Red Cross work under the direction of Mrs. Hayes, will meet Thursday from 2 to 5 o'clock. A full attendance is desired as business of importance will be discussed.

it, and if we do we will come north. And I may as well tell you now that when we do leave here we are sure to go to France and I certainly will be glad because I know this war will not be over until I get over there and stop it. Our captain has been called to Washington or New York and today I heard it was to arrange shipments and transportation.

5,000,000 IN FRANCE IN THREE YEARS

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, April 24.—The United States can put 5,000,000 men in France within three years, "if we are willing to take a chance here and there," Adjutant General McCain told the military affairs committee of the house in testimony on the military appropriation bill made public today.

"Assuming that we will have to have 5,000,000 men over there, at least 5,000,000, and that we should get them as quickly as possible, how many do you think it would be possible for us to get ready each year?" Representative Moran asked.

"If we can get the ships, we can get the men after this year," said General McCain.

"Assuming that we could get the ships," Moran pursued, "what would be the maximum each year after the first year?"

"I do not see any reason, if we could get the ships why we can't send over 3,000,000 men."

"If we have to have 5,000,000 men and get sufficient ships we could have them over in two and a half years."

"Easily, as far as getting the men is concerned after we get the ammunition and ordnance departments do. Outside of that, there is no limit in getting them ready."

"Then it is safe to assume that it would take us at least three years to get 5,000,000 men over there, trained and equipped?"

"I think we can do it before that," said General McCain, "if we are willing to take a chance here and there, willing to go in without fear of making a mistake."

EXPLOITS OF MEN IN RECENT BATTLE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
With the American Army, April 23.—(8 p. m.)—Private David Griggs of East Hampton, Conn., distinguished himself in the battle of Seicheprey by carrying ammunition through three lines of barrage fire and today he is the favorite among his comrades.

It is not alone his bravery that makes Griggs so much beloved, but his modesty as well.

A Red Cross field agent told this story about the Yankee soldier today: "Griggs, who is only 19 years old, was carried into our canteen slightly wounded. After he had rested he began to tell of the courage of the others."

But he said nothing about himself. Griggs's comrade Connors referred to Griggs as "The bravest kid in our squad."

"He didn't have to say anything about himself," declared Connors. "What he did was just like him. He went through three barrages carrying ammunition. He didn't want to quit when he came to after being bowled over by a big shell. They couldn't scare him and I don't see how he lived through it. It is funny how a fellow comes through it like that."

The same Red Cross agent who had first spoken when Griggs told of two Americans being attacked by six Germans. They captured an American machine gun but the Americans killed all the Germans with their automatic pistols and recaptured the gun, turning it against the enemy.

Private Raymond A. Ferris, of No. 3 Winchester street, Milford, Conn., a 23 year old courier, came through the barrage and was twice blown down by shells.

The exploit of Private Ferris was spoken of in dispatches on Monday but at that time his identity was not known.

Ferris had to pass "Dead Man's Curve" on his journey. The shock from the shells made him hysterical and he fainted when reaching headquarters. When he recovered his first request was for his pistol so he could go back and fight the Germans. He asked if his messages had been delivered safely and begged the officers not to think him "yellow," because he had swooned. Ferris had to make his hazardous journey on foot.

"Our machine gun battalion fought to the last ditch all right," declared Private Edward J. Heffren of Watertown, N. Y., who is in the hospital suffering slightly from shrapnel wounds in the right leg.

"Our commander asked for volunteers to help hurry up the guns and twenty-five men responded. We had made our way almost to 'Dead Man's Curve' when a big German shell burst, knocking us all over, but I was the only one wounded. I wish I was back with the outfit and I am sure that all the other wounded fellows feel the same way. The fellows in the ambulance with me kept saying: 'All I want is one more crack at Heinie.'"

Kingston Point Cases.

Tuesday afternoon in police court the six young boys who were accused of breaking into the Penny Arcade at Kingston Point Park were arraigned for trial, the hearing having been adjourned until that day. Two of the boys were placed on probation and the other four discharged. It is understood that their parents had delivered restitution for the damage which was the reason for the action taken.

BRIEF REVIEW OF THE BATTLE NEWS

That the Germans have already renewed their drive against Amiens (the great British base on the railway line, running from Paris to the Channel coast) was indicated by the official report issued by the British war office today.

The report told of increasing artillery activity on both the Picardy and Flanders battle fronts and said that strong hostile attacks were developing in the Albert sector (between 17 and 18 miles northeast of Amiens), and between the Somme and Aves rivers.

The Germans have concentrated a heavy artillery fire especially at the point where the British and French armies join, which forecasts another effort to break the armies asunder.

The artillery activity extends all the way from Montdidier northward through the district lying immediately east of the British base at Amiens to the Belgian frontier.

The shelling has been especially severe in the following districts: Between the Somme and Aves rivers, at Hangard-en-Santerre (about ten miles southeast of Amiens), at Villers-Bretonneux, immediately east of Amiens, in the Aves and Scarpe valleys, north of Bethune, and in the region of Bailluc.

The bombardments north of Bethune suggest another German effort to break through the British front to the railroad station at Bethune—an operation they attempted once before but with no success. The Germans will have to advance at least four miles if they hope to get into that town but should they succeed it would be a strategical success of no mean importance. The British defenses are very strong in that sector and it is accepted as a foregone conclusion that the Germans will fail if they undertake the enterprise again.

The German line lying immediately north of Bethune represents the extreme western end of the salient that was driven into the British front from Arras. By striking southward at the tip the Germans might hope to widen the southern flank and lessen the menace from British counter blows.

Bailluc lies on the northern flank on the Flanders, salient at the edge of a series of important heights positions which the British hold. Any German efforts in that zone would be directed westward in the direction of the British railroad position at Hazebrouck.

Frontal attacks are looked for on the Picardy front. It is the evident intention of the Germans to disregard the dangers of flanking movements against the sides of their salient and to make another desperate effort to break into Amiens.

This was the thirty-fifth day of the Grand German offensive and the fifteenth day of the Battle of Flanders.

The daring naval raid made by the British against the German submarine bases of Ostend and Zeebrugge on the Belgian coast continues to divide public interest in the war news. It is believed that the concrete laden ships across the harbor mouths, and especially at the entrance of the Bruges Canal, will greatly hamper submarine operations for some time.

Garage Fire on Broadway.

About 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon a fire suddenly broke out in the garage of Alonzo Terpening, in the rear of his residence at No. 254 Broadway. At the time Frank Mooney was busy under the automobile getting it ready to be placed in commission when the gasoline on the floor leaped into flames. He crawled out in a hurry and managed to get outside the garage without being burned and closed the big doors and then telephoned in an alarm to the fire department. Mooney's act of closing the doors is what helped to prevent the garage being badly damaged. The automobile was badly damaged by the fire and the woodwork in the garage was also destroyed. It is understood that there was no insurance carried by Mr. Terpening on either the car or the garage. The upper floor was not damaged.

SUBMARINE BASES BADLY DAMAGED

Raid by British Ships on Ostend and Zeebrugge Did a Large Amount of Damage on U-Boat Bases.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, April 24.—Submarine operations by the Germans will be hampered for some time as a result of the successful raids carried out against Zeebrugge and Ostend, according to information received today from Amsterdam.

Complete official reports have not yet been received but it is believed that the sinking of ships laden with concrete off the harbors of both bases will impede the passage of U-boats and make it necessary for the Germans to do much dredging before they can carry on their underwater operations with their old time freedom.

Zeebrugge is the large and more important of the two bases and has been attacked many times by British and French airplanes.

It is reported by the Mail that two destroyers got inside of the Mole and blew up the gates of the Bruges canal lock, which the Germans had been using for submarine purposes.

This is regarded as one of the most remarkable feats of the war, as the ships had to come under the fire of German shore batteries at close range in addition to avoiding extensive mine fields.

When the lock of the canal was destroyed the ships broke away from their moorings and a considerable number of craft was carried out to sea.

The protecting ships that comoyed the "block fleet" did much damage to the German defensive positions among the sand dunes and it is reported that many shore batteries were wiped out completely.

This was the biggest offensive move that the British fleet has made since the battle of Jutland.

The British carried out their enterprise very cleverly using fog and smoke screens to hide the movements. The ships were almost inside of the harbor before they were detected.

Two of the out of date cruisers that were sunk went down exactly in the middle of the passage through which the Bruges Canal enters the sea. This will be a severe handicap for the Germans for they have been in the habit of running their submarines up the canal for overhauling after operations at sea.

THEY ENLISTED AT POSTOFFICE

Last week Fred Mooker of Hoffman street, Edward Moran of 65 West Union street, and Walter S. Burton of Utica, were accepted for service in the navy. Charles McCann of Henry street and Henry Meyers of Thelon were accepted for army service. The naval officer will be at the postoffice Friday to receive applications for enlistment in any branch of the navy service.

Word has been received in town from Raymond F. Deyo of his safe arrival in France as a member of Company E, 206th Infantry.

Miss Kathleen Deyo of 6 St. James street, this city, has received word of the safe arrival of her brother, Raymond, in France.

Mrs. Fred Nieffer of Burt street, Saugerties, has received word that her brother, Irving Gilbert, has arrived safely somewhere in France.

James Cashdollar of Saugerties, one of the Camp Upton boys, has arrived safely in France. Private Cashdollar's father received the word on Monday.

Mrs. E. L. Elmdorf of Eddyville has received word of the safe arrival of her husband, Private E. L. Elmdorf, 302nd Sanitary Train, 306th Field Hospital, in France.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Markson have received word that their son, Dave, has arrived safely "over there." Private Markson is a member of Co. B, 306th Inf., which left Camp Upton three weeks ago today.

Private John Jove, a son of Motorist Martin Joyce, of the Colonial line, is spending a furlough at the home of his parents on East Chester street. Private Joyce is now stationed at Camp Wadsworth.

Mr. and Mrs. James Bord of 79 Orchard street, received a letter today from their son, Frank J. Bord, of the 116th Field Battalion, Signal Corps, telling of his arrival in a small town somewhere in France.

Today is the anniversary of the enlistment of Ernest R. Wesley, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Wesley of 36 Oak street, who is doing his bit in the engineer corps on the U. S. S. America. He enlisted in the service of Uncle Sam April 24, 1917, for the required term of four years.

Harold B. Castner of the U. S. ship, Arkansas, his brother, J. Elmer Castner, also Wm. Kilgallon of Mississippi, a shipmate of Elmer's, spent a brief furlough at the home of Mrs. Castner, their mother, No. 97 Wynkoop Place. Both boys, the only sons of Mrs. Castner, enlisted in the U. S. navy at the outbreak of the war and speak in the highest terms of the navy. Elmer has been to France several times and brought his mother and sister some handsome and useful souvenirs from France.

Dr. Raymond G. Sanderson, captain in the Officers' Reserve Corps, spent Tuesday night in town, returning this morning to Camp Merritt, N. J., where he has been stationed for some time. After being commissioned last fall Dr. Sanderson for some time was stationed in Washington, D. C., where he conducted laboratory work. He was afterward assigned to the laboratory at one of the large army camps in Mississippi where he remained until transferred to Camp Merritt. During his term of office as Ulster county pathologist, Dr. Sanderson made many friends throughout the county who hope he will visit Kingston again soon.

WAR REHEARSALS IN CAMP WADSWORTH

Barrage Fire With Real Shells—Hike 26 Miles in One Day—Expect to See the Real Thing Soon.

Private Andrew Worf, who is at Camp Wadsworth, has written an interesting letter of the work of the boys in training camp. He writes that for the past three weeks he has been very busy.

First it was the trenches, then a battle, then a hike, then to the range again. In the trenches we did the thing again. In the sham battle we hiked about seven miles until we came to a brook and there some of us stayed on one side and used blank cartridges and shot at the other companies.

At the range we had our packs of about 60 or 70 pounds on our backs. The first day we left here at 8 o'clock in the morning and hiked all day until 2:30 in the afternoon, a distance of about eighteen miles. We hiked 45 minutes of the first hour and had 15 minutes rest, then until noon we had a five minute rest every half hour when had 20 minutes to eat our sandwich which was given to us in the morning.

At 2:30 o'clock we pitched our little dog tents and stopped over night. The next morning we left here at 8 in the morning and continued on to the range the same as we did the day before. We arrived about 2 o'clock and we pitched our tents again and stayed over night. We were now ready to begin our mission.

The next morning at 8 o'clock we left here again. We hiked about a mile when we were halted and given ammunition—the real stuff this time. Then we hiked a short distance, and were all placed along the edge of a wood. The woods were so thick you could not see more than ten feet ahead and you had to cut a path before you could pass through.

We were all seated nicely when all of a sudden machine guns and cannon began firing over our heads and then we received orders to advance, which we did. When we had advanced a certain distance all were ordered to lie down and then we began to shoot into the woods ahead of us.

After this was over we walked a short distance and then had lunch. After that we hiked some more until about 1:30 that afternoon and then pitched camp for the night.

The worst of this trip was the fact that it rained every time we started to pitch camp, and the nights were very cold. We slept on the ground with one blanket over us. There was a very heavy frost every morning when we awoke.

Now comes the most interesting part. At 8 o'clock the next morning we left camp again with our packs of course and started up the mountain road a distance of about two miles. We arrived there about 12:30 and at 1:15 that afternoon we were to go under a barrage fire.

We all walked eagerly to see what was going to happen and some of the boys fell asleep. 1:15 came unexpectedly and a shell whizzed overhead. And then they came with a zip. We all sat still and for four minutes steady the large shells were sailing over our heads and dropping immediately in front of us and exploding and turning up the ground. One of the shells hit a tree about a foot in diameter and cut it right down.

After four minutes the barrage was raised and we advanced under the shell fire for one minute until it stopped. Then we marched back to camp and had dinner. This regiment is the first in this country to go under a barrage fire and we have been very highly complimented on our good work in this action.

The next day was Saturday and at 8 in the morning we packed up and left camp for home. Our company was in the lead. We set a pace of about 4 miles per hour and were told many times to cut it down as we were going to fast for the other men in the rear. Noon time came and we had our lunch after which we resumed the march. The orders read that we should stop over night again, but we were asked if we wanted to stop over and everyone voted on going right through to camp.

It was 26 miles to camp and we did it. We hiked the whole 26 miles in 9 1/2 hours counting the rests in that time. Altogether we rested about 2 or 2 1/2 hours making the total marching time in about 7 hours. And the roads were hard sand but was real cool and firm for hiking, no perspiring. They thought that when we got back to camp we would be all tired out and ready for bed but no there was just as many passes for town as on any ordinary night.

This fact was also very highly commented upon by General O'Rourke and he wrote a very nice letter to the 105th and had it printed in the Spartanburg papers. We also hold the record for hiking now, and I believe that no other regiment in the United States had that record beaten.

Next week we go in the trenches again for three days and I guess that will almost wind up our training. We are coming north I believe within a month.

Am getting along very nicely with my signal work and now have been transferred to a new squad (same company). There are six signal men in the company and they are all together in the one squad. Tommy Devlin is one of us.

From things that are happening down here I have every reason to believe we are all going to leave soon, although I am not sure about assignments and transportation.

KINGSTON'S FLAG TO BE AT HALF-MAST

From Close of Present Campaign Until Next Liberty Loan Unless City Goes Over the Top in Subscribing to Liberty Loan Now.

Mayor Canfield has issued the following letter to the citizens of Kingston.

Office of the Mayor, April 24th, 1918.

Citizens of Kingston.
Our President has proclaimed Friday, the twenty-sixth of April to be "Liberty Day." It is a day of financial prayer. Every one who buys a Liberty Bond utters a prayer for the safety and security of our boys. It is a day when everyone is asked to pledge our government the fullest measure of financial support. It is a day when those who can do so, should enlist themselves as workers to secure subscriptions from others.

Our country is asking for three billions of dollars, but it can use five billions. Kingston is asked for a little over one million of dollars, but the Government can use one million plus one half of a million of dollars from our city. An honor flag is awarded by the United States Treasury Department to every city subscribing its quota. If Kingston does not get its honor flag to fly to the breeze from our City Hall flagstaff, old glory will be kept at half mast there until the next Liberty Loan as an indication that patriotism is dead in Kingston. Fellow-Citizens, this can not happen. It must not happen. It will not happen. I know that our National flag and our honor flag will fly together as joint and double evidence of the loyalty of Kingston to its country, to itself and to its own.

Remember the fathers with their fears.
Remember the mothers with their tears.
Remember our boys who have no peers.
Remember, they ask if Kingston hears.

PALMER CANFIELD, Jr.,

ESCORT AND PARADE FOR LIBERTY BALL

Committee Decides to Have Demonstration When Liberty Ball and Liberty Coach Arrive here Saturday Afternoon—Meeting at Night.

When the Liberty Ball, which is being rolled from Buffalo to New York, and the Liberty Coach, which is making the same trip, both in aid of the Liberty Loan, reach Kingston Saturday afternoon, a parade and demonstration will be held, the same as when Ulster county boys leave for National Army cantonments, and the ball and coach will be escorted to the armory where they will remain over night.

The Liberty Ball and Liberty Coach are expected to reach Saugerties at noon on Saturday, and will probably arrive in Kingston between five and six o'clock in the afternoon. The parade committee, which has had charge of the celebrations held here up to this time, held a meeting Tuesday night and decided to hold a parade similar to the parades which are being held elsewhere in the state. Details of the parade will be included in the orders of the grand marshal, which will be issued later.

Wherever the Liberty Ball and Liberty Coach have appeared, meetings have been held which have been addressed by speakers who are making the Buffalo to New York trip, and it is planned to hold this meeting on Saturday night at the high school auditorium in connection with the exhibition of the war pictures which will be shown there then.

The parade will be on Albany avenue and Broadway to the armory where the Liberty Ball and Liberty Coach will remain for the night.

ODDS AND ENDS.

Regular meeting of Woman's Guild of the Church of the Holy Spirit Thursday at 3 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Frank Kline, 78 Highland avenue.

A delightful musical and reading will be held this evening at Temple Emanuel. At the close of the program the Hon. G. D. B. Hasbrouck will present a service flag.

The Men's Bible Class of the Fair street Reformed Church will meet Friday evening at the home of James Van Keuren on Lucas avenue. It is hoped that there will be a large attendance.

The ladies who meet at No. 6 School to do Red Cross work under the direction of Mrs. Hayes, will meet Thursday from 2 to 5 o'clock. A full attendance is desired as business of importance will be discussed.

And if we do we will come north. And I may as well tell you now that when we do leave here we are sure to go to France and I certainly will be glad because I know this war will not be over until I get over there and stop it. Our captain has been called to Washington or New York and today I heard it was to arrange assignments and transportation.

5,000,000 IN FRANCE IN THREE YEARS

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, April 24.—The United States can put 5,000,000 men in France within three years, "if we are willing to take a chance here and there," Adjutant General McCain told the military affairs committee of the house in testimony on the military appropriation bill made public today.

"Assuming that we will have to have 5,000,000 men over there, at least 5,000,000, and that we should get them as quickly as possible, how many do you think it would be possible for us to get ready each year?" Representative Moran asked.

"If we can get the ships, we can get the men after this year," said General McCain.

"Assuming that we could get the ships," Moran pursued, "what would be the maximum each year after the first year?"

"I do not see any reason, if we could get the ships why we can't send over 5,000,000 men."

"If we have to have 5,000,000 men and get sufficient ships we could have them over in two and a half years."

"Easily, as far as getting the men is concerned after we get the ammunition," General McCain replied. "I do not know what the quartermaster and ordnance departments can do. Outside of that, there is no limit in getting them ready."

"Then it is safe to assume that it would take us at least three years to get 5,000,000 men over there, trained and equipped?"

"I think we can do it before that," said General McCain, "if we are willing to take a chance here and there, willing to go in without fear of making a mistake."

EXPLOITS OF MEN IN RECENT BATTLE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
With the American Army, April 22.—(S. p. m.)—Private David Griggs of East Hampton, Conn., distinguished himself in the battle of Seicheprey by carrying ammunition through three lines of barrage fire and today he is the favorite among his comrades.

It is not alone his bravery that makes Griggs so much beloved but his modesty as well.

A Red Cross field agent told this story about the Yankee soldier today:

Griggs, who is only 19 years old, was carried into our camp slightly wounded. After he had rested he began to tell of the courage of the others.

"But he said nothing about himself,"

Griggs's comrade Connors referred to Griggs as "The bravest kid in our squad."

"He didn't have to say anything about himself," declared Connors. "What he did was just like him. He went through three barrages carrying ammunition. He didn't want to quit when he came to after being howled at by a big shell. They couldn't scare him and I don't see how he lived through it. It is funny how a fellow comes through it like that."

The same Red Cross agent who had first spoken when Griggs told of two Americans being attacked by six Germans, they captured an American machine gun but the Americans killed all the Germans with their automatic pistols and recaptured the gun, turning it against the enemy.

Private Raymond A. Ferris, of No. 3 Winchester street Milford, Conn., a 22 year old courier, came through the barrage and was twice blown down by shells.

"The exploit of Private Ferris was spoken of in dispatches on Monday but at that time his identity was not known."

Ferris had to pass "Dead Man's Curve" on his journey. The shock from the shells made him hysterical and he fainted when reaching headquarters. When he recovered his first request was for his pistol so he could go back and fight the Germans. He asked if his messages had been delivered safely and begged the officers not to think him "yellow" because he had swooned. Ferris had to make his hazardous journey on foot to the last ditch all right," declared Private Edward J. Heffern of Watertown, N. Y., who is in the hospital suffering slightly from shrapnel wounds in the right leg.

"Our commander asked for volunteers to help hurry up the guns and twenty-five men responded. We had made our way almost to 'Dead Man's Curve' when a big German shell burst, knocking us all over, but I was the only one wounded. I wish I was back with the outfit and I am sure that all the other wounded fellows feel the same way. The fellows in the ambulance with me kept saying: 'All I want is one more crack at himine.'"

Kingston Point Cases.

Tuesday afternoon in police court the six young boys who were accused of breaking into the Penny Arcade at Kingston Point Park were arraigned for trial, the hearing having been adjourned until that day. Two of the boys were placed on probation and the other four discharged. It is understood that their parents had made restitution for the damage which was the reason for the action taken.

HOW TO IMPROVE OUR MAN SERVICE

It is no uncommon thing today to hear, from business men, especially those obliged to employ lads in their business, yes, and in the professions needing youths, a constant complaint that the boys now employed lack any sense of responsibility, initiative, and certainly any sense of appreciation of favors granted them. Along with the complaining, one also hears such praise of the young men who have left for the front or the camps, as leads one to feel, with no disparagement to those same men, that certainly either distance lends enchantment, or that comparisons are odious. In this case to those taking the place of the absentees.

We are just beginning to find cause for these complaints, but as time goes on and more and more of our men are called from home, they are likely to grow more pronounced unless some remedial measures are inaugurated. It will become increasingly necessary to employ lads, either out of school hours or just from school, and with the present curriculum for schools what is required to be, there is practically no time left in which to inculcate responsibility, initiative or appreciation. On the other hand, the average parent seems to think that the teaching of these qualities belongs either to the school teacher, or possibly Sunday school teacher, consequently the boy gets this necessary instruction nowhere.

Today, however, there is in active, efficient operation throughout the land what we know as the Boy Scouts of America. If a boy is to pass his Scout tests, (and what earthly use would there be in being a Scout unless he could), he must show a real and active sense of responsibility. Every particle of the initiative spirit in him, will, in one line of Scout work or another, be aroused and cultivated. By daily kindnesses for others he learns appreciation of favors to himself, after a time. All of these statements have been proven in the results again and again, wherever our Boy Scouts are at their best.

Still there is a big "if" in connection with these results which sound so euphoric to our business and professional men. The Boy Scouts will gain all these desired qualities, provided they have efficient, responsible, appreciative Scoutmasters, who are just the business and professional men of any community, who have learned their own Scout duties—and they are sufficiently difficult and unusual to engage some of a man's most valuable time to become sufficiently conversant with them to set the example which is the thing that counts in the making of any youth.

But the trouble is that our business men and our professional men say they are busy to hither with all that work. If doing the necessary things and knowing the necessary facts were the only objective, that view might be a correct one. But when it comes to actually training those boys who in a year or two will be their own employees, how, then, does it look to our business men? Would it not be worth while to help out in a matter of training that would bring such results for themselves if they are not inclined to have the good of our boys at heart sufficiently to undertake the task?

Many more bright boys could be enrolled as Scouts, provided there were enough bright men to act as Scoutmasters, all of which means work, real work, to be sure, but it also means the renewing of the boy heart in every man undertaking it. And only recently, a stranger in our city, coming in contact with many of our men, commented upon the fact that it was very noticeable that so very few of our men seemed to have carried their boy hearts past their thirtieth year. Joining the ranks of Scoutmasters would be a surprisingly short time remedy this very real lack.

While on this subject of Boy Scouts, it would be well to state, in view of the probability of many oncoming campaigns of every sort, and also as an echo of the recent prohibition movement. That there are certain things which any Boy Scout may not do. A Boy Scout is taught to be absolutely non-partisan, non-sectarian and non-military, in order that there shall be that genuine spirit of democracy that is not unduly influenced by party, creed or rank. That accounts for the fact that Boy Scouts were not permitted to distribute literature either for the "West" or "East" side of the Local Option Campaign.

If any business or professional man think it will be worth while to undertake being a Scoutmaster, they can secure further information by calling up the Scout Headquarters, 1680.

WEST PARK.

West Park, April 23.—Shortly after the evening service at the Baptist Church last Sunday evening fire was discovered in the study. As the pastor, Rev. J. R. Simmons, had put some bed clothes around on some chairs to air, then went down stairs to finish his lunch. In a few minutes he returned upstairs and found everything in a blaze and the room full of smoke. He just had time to ring the bell a few times and in a very few minutes there was plenty of help to extinguish the fire. What damage has been done, is covered by insurance. The pastor, Rev. J. R. Simmons and Mrs. Simmons wish to express their thanks to all who so kindly helped them put the fire under control, otherwise the whole building would have burned to the ground.

Rev. and Mrs. Richard Seating, Mr. and Mrs. David Travis, Mrs. Walter Burger and son, James, Mrs. Gilbert Drake and Miss Florence Green were visitors in Poughkeepsie on Monday.

Mrs. Julian Burroughs and Miss Dorcas A. Denby are official Liberty Loan solicitors of this village for the third Liberty Loan. Our village has responded nobly to the appeal for the Red Cross, K. of C. and other war relief funds and to the first and second loans, as well as to many other worthy causes as we feel assured that it will do its bit in the call now being sounded for the third loan. You individually must do your bit to help Uncle Sam do his bit toward crushing the "beast of Berlin"—the Kaiser, and making the world a safe place in which to live. ## HOW TO IMPROVE OUR MAN SERVICE

It is no uncommon thing today to hear, from business men, especially those obliged to employ lads in their business, yes, and in the professions needing youths, a constant complaint that the boys now employed lack any sense of responsibility, initiative, and certainly any sense of appreciation of favors granted them. Along with the complaining, one also hears such praise of the young men who have left for the front or the camps, as leads one to feel, with no disparagement to those same men, that certainly either distance lends enchantment, or that comparisons are odious. In this case to those taking the place of the absentees.

We are just beginning to find cause for these complaints, but as time goes on and more and more of our men are called from home, they are likely to grow more pronounced unless some remedial measures are inaugurated. It will become increasingly necessary to employ lads, either out of school hours or just from school, and with the present curriculum for schools what it is required to be, there is practically no time left in which to inculcate responsibility, initiative or appreciation. On the other hand, the average parent seems to think that the teaching of these qualities belongs either to the school teacher, or possibly Sunday school teacher, consequently the boy gets this necessary instruction nowhere.

Today, however, there is in active, efficient operation throughout the land what we know as the Boy Scouts of America. If a boy is to pass his Scout tests, (and what earthly use would there be in being a Scout unless he could), he must show a real and active sense of responsibility. Every particle of the initiative spirit in him, in one line of Scout work or another, he is aroused and cultivated. By daily kindnesses for others he learns appreciation of favors to himself, after a time. All of these statements have been proven in the results again and again, wherever our Boy Scouts are at their best.

Still there is a big "if" in connection with these results which sound so utopian to our business and professional men. The Boy Scouts will gain all these desired qualities, provided they have efficient, responsible, appreciative Scoutmasters, who are just the business and professional men of any community, who have learned their own Scout duties—and they are sufficiently difficult and unusual to engage some of a man's most valuable time, to become sufficiently conversant with them to set the example which is the thing that counts in the making of any youth.

But the trouble is that our business men and our professional men say they are too busy to bother with all that work. If doing the necessary things and knowing the necessary facts were the only objective, that view might be a correct one. But when it comes to actually training those boys who in a year or two will be their own employees, how, then, does it look to our business men? Would it not be worth while to help out in a matter of training that would bring such results for themselves if they are not inclined to have the good of our boys at heart sufficiently to undertake the task?

Many more bright boys could be enrolled as Scouts, provided there were enough bright men to act as Scoutmasters, all of which means work, real work, to be sure, but it also means the renewing of the boy's heart in every man undertaking it. And only recently, a stranger in our city, coming in contact with many of our men, commented upon the fact that it was very noticeable that so very few of our men seemed to have carried their boy hearts past their thirtieth year. Joining the ranks of Scoutmasters would be a surprisingly short time remedy this very real lack.

While on this subject of Boy Scouts, it would be well to state, in view of the probability of many oncoming campaigns of every sort, and also as an echo of the recent prohibition movement. That there are certain things which any Boy Scout may not do. A Boy Scout is taught to be absolutely non-partisan, non-sectarian and non-military, in order that there shall be that genuine spirit of democracy that is not unduly influenced by party, creed or rank. That accounts for the fact that Boy Scouts were not permitted to distribute literature either for the "Wet" or "Dry" side of the Local Option Campaign.

If any business or professional man think it will be worth while to undertake being a Scoutmaster, they can secure further information by calling up the Scout Headquarters, 1680.

WEST PARK.

West Park, April 23.—Shortly after the evening service at the Baptist Church last Sunday evening fire was discovered in the study. As the pastor, Rev. J. R. Simmons, had put some bed clothes around on some chairs to air, then went down stairs to finish his lunch. In a few minutes he returned upstairs and found everything in a blaze and the room full of smoke. He just had time to ring the bell a few times and in a very few minutes there was plenty of help to extinguish the fire. What damage has been done, is covered by insurance. The pastor, Rev. J. R. Simmons and Mrs. Simmons wish to express their thanks to all who so kindly helped them put the fire under control, otherwise the whole building would have been burned to the ground.

Rev. and Mrs. Richard Searns, Mr. and Mrs. David Travis, Mrs. Walter Burger and son, James, Mrs. Gilbert Drake and Miss Florence Green were visitors in Poughkeepsie on Monday.

Mrs. Julian Burroughs and Miss Dorcas A. Denny are the official Liberty Loan solicitors of this village for the third Liberty Loan. Our village has responded nobly to the appeal for the Red Cross, K. of C. and other war relief funds and to the first and second loans; as well as to many other worthy causes as we feel assured that it will do its bit in the call now being sounded for the third loan. You individually must do your bit to help Uncle Sam do his bit toward crushing the "Beast of Berlin"—the Kaiser, and making the world a safe place in which to live. Do not wait to be drafted, but be patriotic, go to them and volunteer your money for the great cause of liberty. You are not giving your money, it is only a loan to Uncle Sam to be used to purchase the only things that can protect our boys on the firing line, the tools of war: tanks, guns, ammunition, shells and aeroplanes. KINGSTON, N. Y., APRIL 24, 1918.

Giving thrift stamps as tips, which has been inaugurated among the fashionable colony at a prominent southern resort, is one of the most sensible plans to which wealthy society people have devoted themselves. The tipping habit never will entirely die out although the war has somewhat curtailed it. Many employees depend far more on the tips they receive than on their wages which are only nominal. This is particularly true in the bigger cities where in some lines of work a percentage only of the tips is allowed to be retained. Occasionally the head waiter in some famous hotel dies and it is disclosed that he acquired a fortune through tips and could have retired from business on what he had saved. Such habits of thrift are rare, however, and the majority of recipients of tips do not save much of the money so received. Giving thrift stamps indicates a desire to be thrifty and as soon as the employee who receives thrift stamps instead of cash realizes the benefit to himself resulting from saving instead of careless spending, he is quite apt to cultivate other habits along the same line and to use his own spare cash in the purchase either of thrift stamps, war savings stamps or Liberty Loan bonds. The extent to which the giving of thrift stamps in place of cash as tips has been adopted is impossible to state. The wealthy patrons of the southern hotels did not originate the plan, however, as it was in operation in this city soon after the war savings stamps were placed on sale. Thrift stamps as tips serve a threefold purpose: they benefit the government, bring the donor in closer touch with the government and start the recipient on the road to successful saving.

It is strange that war should be necessary to put graft out of commission in the varnish industry, but an order issued several days ago by the Federal Trade Commission indicates the extent to which graft permeated the business. The order of the Commission requires twenty-six companies to "cease the practice of giving or offering to give entertainment, money and gratuities such as liquors, cigars, meals and personal property to employees of customers, prospective customers and competitors' customers as an inducement to them to influence their employers in purchases of varnish and kindred products." The twenty-six companies had no defense; they admitted the charges were true and consented that the commission make its findings without the taking of testimony. Graft of any kind is added to the cost of production and passed on to the consumer. Graft of that character doesn't even come under the head of what Senator Plunkett described as "honest graft." Now that the Federal Trade Commission has made a beginning, it might go on through a long list of similar iniquities in other branches of business, and by degrees contribute materially to reducing the cost of living. Varnish isn't an everyday commodity of general use, but war has compelled everyone to look carefully after small details where saving may be accomplished, and it is the duty of the government to make public the names of the offending firms in all lines of business, as it did with the varnish companies. Publicity is one of the best cures for business dishonesty and if we can cure business of graft like this, while the war is on, we shall have made a double stride to the goal of world honesty. If it is the duty of government to protect itself from such dishonesty, it is its duty also to protect the individuals living under it.

Sinking ships filled with concrete at the entrance to German submarine bases bears a great resemblance to the bottling up of the Spanish fleet in Santiago harbor during the Spanish-American War. A feat of that kind not only is unusual but in most cases is impossible. Bringing ships within effective sinking distance of U-boat bases is particularly difficult now because of the mine fields which have been planted around the harbors used by the U-boats and the danger of premature sinking by shots from German warships or land defenses. Washington officials regard the Ostend and Zebrugge raids which were planned on Tuesday as marking a trend toward an aggressive rather than a defensive allied naval policy. Aggressive naval maneuvers by the Allies are more possible now than they were before the United States entered the war. It has been Great Britain's duty to protect her own coast from German warship attacks, keep open the transport lines necessary for the Allied armies and their supplies, and perform other safeguarding duty throughout the world which could not be taken over by any other nation. The work now being performed by American destroyers in conveying transports and supply ships is being supplemented by the effective work which they are reported to be doing in sinking submarines. The success of this work will release the British navy for more aggressive action which was impossible as long as the responsibility of guarding not only Britain but the Allies rested on the British navy. Britain at no time could afford to stake her fortunes on an open battle with the German navy, but augmented now by the United States naval forces, the navies of our Allies may be reasonably expected to execute from time to time attacks whose success must materially shorten the war and bring about the end of Kaiserism more quickly.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"Let me sell you this 1918 style book. It tells you what will be worn and why?" "I already know what I'll wear and why. I'll wear my old clothes because I can't afford new ones."—Boston Transcript.

"So you favor government ownership?" exclaimed the friend. "Who said I favor it?" inquired Senator Sorghum. "Why, your recent speech was strong for the idea." "That's no sign I favor it."—Washington Star.

"Jones told me this morning his fiancée was light-headed, and I said: 'Is she?' I am afraid he didn't like it." "Why weren't you more sympathetic?" "Because I couldn't tell whether he meant she was a blonde or delirious."—Baltimore American.

Little Else the Matter.

Mrs. Jones rushed into her neighbors and asked if she might use the telephone.

"What's the matter?" asked the neighbor.

"I want to send for the doctor for my husband!" panted Mrs. Jones.

"What's up with him?"

"He tells me he has got hepatitis, dyspepsia, rheumatism, enteritis, gastritis, appendicitis, nephritis and cerebro spinal meningitis!"

"Where did he get all that?"

"Why, a man induced him to buy a medical dictionary and he's just begun reading it."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Wise Miss Marie.

Little Marie stood in the doorway, one hand on the door knob. For a moment she gazed at her mother, who was preparing to go out.

"Mother," she said, "do you know what I am going to give you for your birthday when it comes?"

"No, dear," answered the mother, "please tell me."

"A nice hairpin tray with gold flowers on it all around," said the little girl.

"But, my dear," exclaimed the mother, "I have a nice one like that already."

"No, you haven't, mother," Marie answered. "I have just dropped it on the floor."—Chicago Herald.

Some Smoothness.

She was waiting for him.

Gathering her brows like gathering storm, nursing her wrath to keep it warm, and when he entered the room she began:

"This is a nice time of night—"

"I—er—know I'm late," he hastily interrupted, "but I couldn't help it, my dear. Club had—er—big discussion on female beauty."

"And what had you to do with that?" demanded the fretful wife.

"More'n any one there. I was the one—er—who had the most beautiful wife, an—er—course the best authority on female beauty, an—"

"Why don't you take off your overcoat, Henry? Let me get your slippers for you. It's awful cold outside. I think you must be half-frozen."

Fight For Honor.

Think well about great things; and know that thought is the only reality in this world. Lift up nature to thine own stature; and let the whole universe be for thee no more than the reflection of thine own heroic soul. Combat for honor's sake; that alone is worthy of a man. And if it should fall to thee to receive wounds, shed thy blood as a beneficent dew, and smile.—Cervantes.

His Headquarters.

A small feather pillow which nestled in a glass case in the historical museum created special interest among the visitors. "I don't see anything unusual about that pillow," remarked a girl, turning to the guide. "It's a very valuable pillow," replied the guide. "That is Washington's original headquarters."—The Girls' Circle.

FATAL MOTORCYCLE ACCIDENT TUESDAY

Thomas Mayone, 22 years old, of Steep Rocks, lost control of his motorcycle on the Saugerties road near the entrance to Lake Katrine Tuesday afternoon at five o'clock and received injuries which resulted in his death at the Benedictine Sanitarium two hours later.

Mayone was riding in the direction of Saugerties and according to witnesses was not traveling at a rapid rate. It is presumed that he lost control of his motorcycle, which left the road and crashed in a telephone pole situated a few feet from the road leading to Lake Katrine. When picked up, he was unconscious. His face was covered with blood which flowed from a cut over the right eye and from his nose and ears.

Dr. Mark O'Meara, who was summoned, removed Mayone to the Benedictine Sanitarium, where he was also examined by Dr. John G. O'Leary. They found a fracture at the base of the skull and also that Mayone had sustained internal injuries. He remained unconscious until his death.

Mayone was well known in the vicinity in which he lived, and had many friends. He was a member of St. Columba's Church of East Kingston. He is survived by his wife and one child.

John D. Rockefeller, Jacob H. Schiff and Others Discuss the Temptations of Youth.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., said he believed bad companionship the worst temptation of youth.

Jacob H. Schiff said he believed alcohol and liquor are responsible for the downfall of hundreds of thousands of young men.

Another reformer declared frivolous and beautiful women distracted young men from the more serious pursuits of life.

Rev. Thomas Gregory, noted clergyman, declared that the evils of gambling started many on the downward path.

And so on. Different men placed the blame for the downfall of youth upon various temptations.

But—

While these eminent men differed as to the CAUSES they all agreed upon the one REMEDY necessary to combat the forces of evil.

That remedy, all declared, is KNOWLEDGE.

Show a young man what will happen to him if he does not obey the laws of society, of sociology, of hygiene—point out the terrible consequences of his folly—and being forewarned and forearmed by KNOWLEDGE he will know how to resist these temptations.

A certain play will be presented at the Kingston Opera House for three days, beginning Monday May 6th. It deals in dramatic form with THIS VERY SUBJECT which was discussed so recently by those social workers.

The play is called "EXPERIENCE." It was written by George V. Hobart. It takes the life of a young man, and shows ten EPISODES in the life of such a young man. By showing in each case the evil results from a life of pleasure, recklessness, gambling, debauchery—even crime—this play makes every youth who sees it HESITATE.

In one performance he sees the lesson of a lifetime; in one evening he learns the wisdom of the ages.

You cannot afford to have YOUR BOY miss this play. You cannot afford to have ANYONE YOU LOVE miss such a fine, great, moral, dramatic play.

Let your boy gather KNOWLEDGE by "EXPERIENCE" and thereby be better fitted for his career in life.

NOTE TO KINGSTON THEATRE-GOERS.

"EXPERIENCE," the Most Wonderful Play in America, written by George V. Hobart, will come to the Kingston Opera House for an engagement of three nights, beginning Monday, May 6th. It comes here direct after a phenomenal engagement of five months in Philadelphia—the longest run ever known in the history of that city. It was presented for nine months in New York, five months in Boston and seven months in Chicago. The same company of 82 people, which played these other cities now comes to Kingston with the original production of ten big and brilliant scenes.

Prices for this engagement will be identically the same as charged during the run of the play in other cities. Evening, 50c to $1.50. A bargain matinee will be given on Wednesday, when the best seats will be only $1.00. Mail orders, when accompanied by proper remittance, including 10 per cent war tax, will be filled in the order received at the box office of the Kingston Opera House.

Send money order for seats at once, as the history of this play elsewhere shows it always PLAYS TO ABSOLUTELY BOX OFFICE CAPACITY.

Seats will be placed on sale Thursday, May 2nd.

Send 20 cents in stamps to manager "Experience" Company, Kingston Opera House, for 150-page illustrated book of the play, Acting Version.

COURT OF APPEALS DECIDES CITY CASE

Admiral Judgment by Which Lower Court Dismissed Suit Against City Counsel for Accounting and Restitution of Money.

The court of appeals at Albany on Tuesday handed down a decision affirming with costs the judgment of the appellate division of the supreme court in the action for an accounting and restitution of moneys brought by the city of New York against F. J. R. Clarke, as executor of the estate of the late Hon. John J. Linson; Everett Fowler and Augustus H. Van Buren, thereby also affirming the judgment of Judge Cochrane of Hudson, before whom the case was tried and who dismissed the complaint.

The action arose over the conduct of the Ashokan reservoir and Catskill aqueduct proceedings by Senator Linson, Mr. Fowler and Mr. Van Buren. They received and disbursed large sums of money and it was claimed that in making out bills against city of New York for themselves and their assistants, there had been duplication of items and consequent double payment; that overcharges had been made for other services, both for searching titles to the real estate taken and for trial work, the persons who performed the work not receiving the amount of money for which bills were submitted by counsel, and that other errors had occurred in addition.

The trial of the case lasted several weeks and took place before Judge Cochrane without a jury. Practically all the accounts were introduced in evidence showing the amount of payments which had been made to the three principal counsel who had charge of the condemnation proceedings, and the amount disbursed by them. After the death of Senator Linson, his executor, Mr. Clarke, was substituted as a defendant in his place.

Judge Cochrane decided the case in favor of the defendants. The city of New York appealed the case to the appellate division, which affirmed Judge Cochrane's judgment by a divided court, the court standing two for reversal and three for affirmation. The case was then appealed to the court of appeals, which it was argued several weeks ago. The court of appeals on Tuesday affirmed the judgment of the lower court with costs.

The action was begun by William McM. Sner, special counsel for the city, while Frank L. Polk, now counsel for the department of state, was corporation counsel, following the publication of testimony which was taken in New York city in an investigation conducted by District Attorney, now Governor Whitman. The argument before the court of appeals was made by Mr. Sner on behalf of the city of New York; by Howard Chipp, representing Mr. Clarke; by Judge John G. Van Etten, representing Everett Fowler, and by Alfred Van Buren, representing Augustus H. Van Buren. Judge Van Etten was substituted for Amos Van Etten, who was the original attorney in the case for Mr. Fowler.

A few days ago in the City of New York, eminent sociologists, men and women prominent in reform work discuss the greatest temptations confronting young men of today.

PRO-CATHEDRAL CALLS REV. LARNED

Some ten days ago the Rev. J. I. Blair Larned, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, this city, was called to South Bethlehem as a candidate as dean of the Pro-Cathedral Church of the Nativity, Bethlehem, Pa. The possibilities which this call to preach at the Pro-Cathedral opened, were a source of grave anxiety to the vestry and parishioners of St. John's Church, which has, under Mr. Larned, reached a state of spiritual influence and efficiency and a numerical and financial condition never attained before. On Tuesday Mr. Larned received the call to the Pro-Cathedral, and while he has not yet accepted the call, it is hardly possible that the vastly greater opportunities offered in this new and rapidly growing field can fail to draw a man of Mr. Larned's ability and vision. Mr. Larned is out of town today and could not be reached by a Freeman reporter, but it is expected that his decision will soon be made.

While the people of St. John's feel that it is indeed an honor that their rector has been called to such a responsible and important charge, and are assured that he will be indeed competent to fill it most acceptably, they also feel the deepest regret that the call should have come while Mr. Larned's work here which has been so much more than satisfactory, should have progressed for so short a time. Mr. Larned has been rector of St. John's Church about a year and a half.

The substantial men of coming years will be those who formed the saving habit in their youth. Start with a Thrift Stamp today.

WILL CALL EXAM FOR WOULD-BE COPS

The local civil service board will hold a regular monthly meeting Friday evening at which time it is expected they will fix a date for holding examination to make up an eligible list for the police department to make an appointment from to fill the vacancy on the police force caused by the death of Officer Boyd. It is understood the examination will be held some time in May. The present list the police board have is understood not to contain enough names as several on the list have signified their intention of not wanting the job of cop as they have since secured other positions.

Square Bottom Round Top

That's the shape of the fire pot in Square Pot Boilers. This exclusive construction is a big step in advance of all other designs of boilers. Radiating surface is increased, heat is in direct and close contact with water-containing sections, and grate bars are all of same length. This allows quick clearance and prevents clogging. Square Pot Boilers steam quickly and require less attention than other kinds.

They are made of highest quality materials by expert workmen and designed on scientifically correct, practically proven heating principles. Consult your dealer or write direct to us. No matter what your requirements are, there's a Square Pot Boiler or Furnace to fill them.

Painless Dentistry

The difference between painless and painful dentistry depends upon the carefulness and skillfulness of the operator. With good instruments, fresh medicines, local anaesthetics and nitrous oxide gas a careful and skillful dentist can perform all operations painlessly, even to the extraction of teeth.

Painless methods, earnest endeavor and reasonable prices have in thirty years, made the Cady Dental Corporation the largest dental organization in New York state.

COTTEKILL.

Cottekill, April 24.—We have been advised that there is one family living in this village who are either so ignorant or unpatriotic that they have not advanced their clocks ahead the hour requested by the government. It was with regret that we print this.

The meeting night of the Jr. O. U. A. M. lodge has been changed from Saturday evening until Thursday evening; so the next meeting will be on Thursday evening, April 25, at eight o'clock and every Thursday evening thereafter.

We sincerely request and hope that every one will subscribe for as large a Liberty Bond as is consistent, thereby doing their share in assisting the few boys who have given up all pleasures and gone to protect this little hamlet.

Guido Bock spent Tuesday at Kingston. L. R. Conner has been appointed by the railroad company to canvass the Southern Division and personally request every employee to subscribe for a bond in the Third Liberty Loan.

being relieved during his absence by J. A. Keator.

The War Supper recently held in the Reformed Church did not prove very successful on account of the inclement weather.

L. R. Conner has been declared the expert painter of this village, he having recently given his "diver" a coat of paint, making it look like a new car.

When to Abandon Hope.

We quite agree with you that it is time for a lover to give up hope when the lady "cuts him dead" in the streets and her father threatens to kick him off the doorstep. These are discouragements which ought to check the ardor of the most sanguine man.—London Tit-Bits.

KINGSTON, N. Y., APRIL 24, 1918.

Giving thrift stamps as tips, which has been inaugurated among the fashionable colony at a prominent southern resort, is one of the most sensible plans to which wealthy society people have devoted themselves. The tipping habit never will entirely die out although the war has somewhat curtailed it. Many employees depend far more on the tips they receive than on their wages which are only nominal. This is particularly true in the bigger cities where in some times of work a percentage only of the tips is allowed to be retained. Occasionally the head waiter in some famous hostelry dies and it is disclosed that he acquired a fortune through tips and could have retired from business on what he had saved. Such habits of thrift are rare, however, and the majority of recipients of tips do not save much of the money so received. Giving thrift stamps inculcates a desire to be thrifty and as soon as the employee who receives thrift stamps instead of cash realizes the benefit to himself resulting from saving instead of careless spending, he is quite apt to cultivate other habits along the same line and to use his own spare cash in the purchase either of thrift stamps, war savings stamps or Liberty Loan bonds. The extent to which the giving of thrift stamps in place of cash as tips has been adopted is impossible to state. The wealthy patrons of the southern hotels did not originate the plan, however, as it was in operation in this city soon after the war and war savings stamps were placed on sale. Thrift stamps as tips serve a threefold purpose: they benefit the government, bring the donor in closer touch with the government and start the recipient on the road to successful saving.

It is strange that war should be necessary to put graft out of commission in the varnish industry, but an order issued several days ago by the Federal Trade Commission indicates the extent to which graft permeated the business. The order of the Commission requires twenty-six companies to "cease the practice of giving or offering to give entertainment, money and gratuities such as liquors, cigars, meals and personal property to employees of customers, prospective customers and competitors' customers as an inducement to them to influence their employers in purchases of varnish and kindred products." The twenty-six companies had no defense; they admitted the charges were true and consented that the commission make its findings without the taking of testimony. Graft of any kind is added to the cost of production and passed on to the consumer. Graft of that character doesn't even come under the head of what Senator Plunkett described as "honest graft." Now that the Federal Trade Commission has made a beginning, it might go on through a long list of similar injustices in other branches of business, and by degrees contribute materially to reducing the cost of living. Varnish isn't an everyday commodity of general use, but war has compelled everyone to look carefully after small details where saving may be accomplished, and it is the duty of the government to make public the names of the offending firms in all lines of business, as it did with the varnish companies. Publicity is one of the best cures for business dishonesty and if we can cure business of graft like this, while the war is on, we shall have made a double stride to the goal of world honesty. If it is the duty of government to protect itself from such dishonesty, it is its duty also to protect the individuals living under it.

Sinking ships filled with concrete at the entrance to German submarine bases bears a great resemblance to the bottling up of the Spanish fleet in Santiago harbor during the Spanish-American War. A feat of that kind not only is unusual but in most cases is impossible. Bringing ships within effective sinking distance of U-boats has been particularly difficult now because of the mine fields which have been planted around the harbors used by the U-boats and the danger of premature sinking by shots from German warships or land defenses. Washington officials regard the Ostend and Zebrugge raids which were on Tuesday as marking a trend toward an aggressive rather than a defensive allied naval policy. Aggressive naval maneuvers by the Allies are more possible now than they were before the United States entered the war. It has been Great Britain's duty to protect her own coast from German warship attacks, keep open the transport lines necessary for the Allied armies and their supplies, and perform other safeguarding duty throughout the world which could not be taken over by any other nation. The work now being performed by American destroyers in conveying transports and supply ships is being supplemented by the effective work which they are reported to be doing in sinking submarines. The success of this work will release the British navy for more aggressive action which was impossible as long as the responsibility of guarding not only Britain but the Allies rested on the British navy. Britain at no time could afford to stake her fortunes on an open battle with the German navy, but augmented now by the United States naval forces, the navies of our Allies may be reasonably expected to execute from time to time attacks whose success must materially shorten the war and bring about the end of Kaiserism more quickly.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"Let me sell you this 1918 style book. It tells you what will be worn and why?" "I already know what I'll wear and why. I'll wear my old clothes because I can't afford new ones."—Boston Transcript.

"So you favor government ownership?" exclaimed the friend. "Who said I favor it?" inquired Senator Sorghum. "Why, your recent speech was strong for the idea." "That's no sign I favor it."—Washington Star.

"Jones told me this morning his fiancée was light-headed, and I said: 'Is she?' I am afraid he didn't like it." "Why weren't you more sympathetic?" "Because I couldn't tell whether he meant she was a blonde or delirious."—Baltimore American.

Little Else the Matter.

Mrs. Jones rushed into her neighbor's and asked if she might use the telephone.

"What's the matter?" asked the neighbor.

"I want to send for the doctor for my husband," panted Mrs. Jones.

"What's up with him?"

"He tells me he has got hepatitis, dyspepsia, rheumatism, enteritis, gastritis, appendicitis, nephritis and cerebro spinal meningitis!"

"Where did he get all that?"

"Why, a man induced him to buy a medical dictionary and he's just begun reading it."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Wise Miss Marie.

Little Marie stood in the doorway, one hand on the door knob. For a moment she gazed at her mother, who was preparing to go out.

"Mother," she said, "do you know what I am going to give you for your birthday when it comes?"

"No, dear," answered the mother, "please tell me."

"A nice hairpin tray with gold flowers on it all around," said the little girl.

"But, my dear," exclaimed the mother, "I have a nice one like that already."

"No, you haven't, mother," Marie answered. "I have just dropped it on the floor."—Chicago Herald.

Some Smoothness.

She was waiting for him. Gathering her brows like gathering storm, nursing her wrath to keep it warm, and when he entered the room she began:

"This is a nice time of night—"

"I—er—know I'm late," he hastily interrupted, "but I couldn't help it, my dear. Club had—er—big discussion on female beauty."

"And what had you to do with that?" demanded the fretful wife.

"More'n any one there. I was the only one—who had the most beautiful wife, and—er—course the best authority on female beauty, an—"

"Why don't you take off your overcoat, Henry? Let me get your slippers for you. It's awful cold outside; I think you must be half-frozen."

Fight For Honor.

Think well about great things; and know that thought is the only reality in this world. Lift up nature to thine own stature; and let the whole universe be for thee no more than the reflection of thine own heroic soul. Combat for honor's sake; that alone is worthy of a man. And if it should fall to thee to receive wounds, shed thy blood as a beneficent dew, and smile.—Cervantes.

His Headquarters.

A small feather pillow which nestled in a glass case in the historical museum created especial interest among the visitors. "I don't see anything unusual about that pillow," remarked a girl turning to the guide. "It's a very valuable pillow," replied the guide. "That is Washington's original headquarters."—The Girls Circle.

JUDGE CLEARWATER LOANED HIS SILVER

His Collection of Paul Revere's Pieces Used in Lecture to the Blind in New York City Last Week.

A unique and probably unparalleled address in favor of the Liberty Loan was given in New York last week by Miss Winifred Howe, granddaughter of the celebrated Dr. Samuel Gridley Howe, the Boston philanthropist, who did so much for the blind, and who achieved a world wide reputation by educating Laura Bridgman. Miss Howe spoke to seven hundred totally blind persons upon patriotism, selecting Paul Revere as a noted American patriot.

The committee having the matter in charge asked Judge Clearwater to loan for the meeting some pieces of silver belonging to him, made by Paul Revere, stating that it would give the greatest pleasure to many of these blind people to touch an object made by him. The judge loaned what the committee requested. Every one of the seven hundred blind auditors was permitted to hold one of these pieces of silver in his or her hand. Miss Howe said that it was pathetic to see the gentle care with which they treated what they touched, that it would be one of the brightest events in their dreary lives, one they would think and talk for years to come.

Many of these blind people are wealthy, and subscribed liberally to the new Liberty Loan. There are many hundreds of blind men and women in New York, but it is extremely difficult to get them together as they are shy and sensitive. In making the loan Judge Clearwater wrote that if at any time he could be of any service in giving pleasure to any one who was blind or deaf, the committee had but to command him.

Australia's A-terian Basin.

The artesian basin of Australia measures 550,000 square miles in extent, and is said to be the largest known in the world, comprising 875,000 square miles in Queensland, 90,000 in South Australia, 83,000 in New South Wales and 20,000 in the northern territory.

BEFORE COUNTY JUDGE JENKINS

Arthur Markle Brings Action Against Zachary Osborne to Foreclose a Mortgage — Echo of Interesting Case Tried in Supreme Court.

The action brought by Arthur Markle against Zachary Osborne, both of Mombaccus, to foreclose a mortgage on some property in that place, was heard before County Judge Jenkins Tuesday at his chambers. After some testimony had been taken the matter was adjourned until May 8 at 10 o'clock.

This case is an echo of a case tried in the December term of the supreme court here, in which Zachary Osborne brought suit against Mrs. Cornelia J. Terwilliger, over 80 years old, of Mombaccus, and was awarded a verdict of $1,377.50 by the jury.

In order to understand the present action it will be necessary to briefly review the first case just mentioned. Osborne, in his suit against Mrs. Terwilliger, alleged that November 12, 1915, he bought a farm from Mrs. Terwilliger; this farm being located at Mombaccus, town of Rochester, about three or four miles from Kerhonkson. Osborne alleged that after Mrs. Terwilliger sold the property she wanted it back and that she coaxed him to sell it back to her, and that he refused.

On the night of November 12, a year after the sale, the barn and the wagon shed were destroyed by fire. It was claimed that Mrs. Terwilliger was seen in the vicinity of the fire shortly after it was discovered and that she gave no good reason for her presence.

It was also claimed that a few days after the fire Mrs. Terwilliger confessed to George W. Dumond and William Geary that she set the barn on fire.

Facts in This Action.

At the time that Mrs. Terwilliger sold the property to Osborne she took the mortgage, but for part of the purchase price. This was in November 12, 1915. On November 12, 1916, the property was burned.

The latter part of December, 1916, after the fire, Mrs. Terwilliger assigned this mortgage to Arthur Markle. Markle is now bringing this action to foreclose the mortgage.

The defense is that Mrs. Terwilliger burned the property, and that Osborne has a counter claim for the judgment secured against Mrs. Terwilliger.

Judge John G. Van Eiten and John R. DeVany appeared for Markle. County Attorney John W. Eckert for Osborne.

Mr. Dumond and Mr. Geary were called at the hearing Tuesday and their testimony was along the same lines as given at the trial of the action brought by Osborne against Mrs. Terwilliger.

Dumond and Geary told of Mrs. Terwilliger's alleged admission of setting the barn on fire.

Attorney Frank W. Brooks testified of an alleged conversation at the Staywan Hotel between George Mertine, Markle and Mr. Brooks. It is alleged that Markle said at this time words to this effect: "The old lady fired the building, but you can never do anything about it."

Port Ewen, April 24.—Miss Elsie Lowe will entertain the Dorcas Society Friday evening, April 26, at her home on Schryver street.

Esopus Council, No. 42, Sons of Daughters of Liberty, will meet this evening at 8 o'clock in their rooms in Spinnewebber's Hall.

John Groves of New York city is spending a few days at his home on Broadway.

Fred Schane of Wales, Wis., has leased the Schulman farm on South Broadway, with the privilege of buying it.

Bever Sleight, who is employed at Dumont, N. Y., spent the week end at his home on Schryver street.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barton of Union Hill, N. J., are guests of relatives here for a few days.

Grover Hotelling of Broadway went to Albany on business Monday.

Hudler Cemetery Officials Elected.

At a meeting of those interested in improving the Hudler Cemetery at Mt. Tremper, held last Saturday, it was decided to acquire title to the cemetery and also to an additional strip of land immediately adjoining and power was given to the newly elected officers to have the association incorporated. The following were elected officers: Frank Ecker, president; Madison Longyear, vice-president; Herbert Spencer, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. Herbert Spencer, assistant secretary. A board of trustees was elected as follows: Calvin Satterlee, for 5 years; George Benjamin, for 4 years; Horace Myers, for 3 years; John H. Garrison, for 2 years, and William Winnie for 1 year.

It was suggested that possibly some may desire to improve their plots before Decoration Day and that the association would gladly have them do so.

Phrenological.

An odd reminder, says the Independent, of the days when phrenology was popular as a means of "reading character," with a side dig at the tendency of its professors to give complimentary explanations of the "bumps," is found in a letter from Elizabeth Barrett Browning advertised for sale in a London bookseller's catalogue. It reads in part: "Do you believe in phrenology? Did you ever consult a phrenologist oracle? and did it answer, 'My son, thou art invincible?'"

GERMAN PROPAGANDA IN WOODSTOCK

The Patriotic Service League of Woodstock reports that friends of Germany have been, and still are, busy in the locality. It sends our warm ing to all loyal citizens of the United States to beware of them and of their dangerous activity.

It is not difficult to identify them. A definite idea underlies everything they say and do. They wish to prevent the full strength of the country from being brought against Germany. Whatever is said which has this for its object is to be distrusted.

They say that the war will end soon so there is no use to prepare for its continuance. These who are in a position to know most, believe that the war will go on for several years.

They say that there is an overproduction of certain crops so it is not necessary to plant them. Potatoes for example were produced they say too abundantly last year and are entailing a loss on the planter, so they advise farmers to plant very few this year.

They say there is plenty of wheat in the country so there is no need to be economical with it, that saving food is entirely unnecessary. In consequence certain of our citizens have been lately feeding bread-making grains to farm stock. Those who are in a position to know most believe that it is only by the most rigid food conservation and by increased production that we will be saved from ration cards and actual hunger.

In the warring countries in Europe about 4,750,000 have been killed by starvation since the war began and about 4,250,000 killed by fighting.

They throw discredit upon the President and his administration. He is the only person empowered to lead us in the present crisis. There should be no attempt to precipitate partisan politics now. We must pull together if we are to win the war.

They repeat stories of governmental inefficiency which they have no proof. They discourage the buying of Thrift stamps and Liberty Bonds. They repeat stories about conditions surrounding our soldiers at home and abroad calculated to produce lack of confidence in their leaders.

These things are first said by some friend of Germany. Often he is paid by the German government to

Courtesies of the Match.

There were the usual courtesies as to precedence in the use of the match. "It's very English," said the man in the corner. "In Scandinavia you can tell the nationality of a man by the way he lights his cigarette. A Swede strikes a match, uses it and throws it away. A Dane uses the match first and then offers it to you. The Norwegian strikes a match, offers it to his companion and uses the fag-end himself."—London Chronicle.

Our War and We Must Win It

In a recent address in Chicago a prominent American business man said:

"Our war vessels have been destroyed, our soldiers and sailors killed and captured, and our casualty lists are being published, yet in the face of this we go on from day to day, living in an atmosphere of smug peace, making the war effort that comes to us, that is forced upon us, even as if we refused to realize that this is our war and we alone must win it."

Now is the time, before some fearful disaster overtakes us, to shake off this dangerous lethargy, to rouse ourselves from this false dream of peace and safety, to awake to a full realization of the gigantic task we have undertaken, and the dread menace under which we rest. The "effort which is forced upon us" is not enough.

There must be universal, spontaneous, unstinted and unlimited effort if we are to win this war. There must be an overwhelming investment in Liberty Bonds.

FATAL MOTORCYCLE ACCIDENT TUESDAY

Thomas Marone, 22 years old, of Deep Rocks, lost control of his motorcycle on the Saucerties road near the entrance to Lake Katrine Tuesday afternoon at five o'clock and received injuries which resulted in his death at the Benedictine Sanitarium two hours later.

Marone was riding in the direction of Saucerties and according to witnesses was not traveling at a rapid rate. It is presumed that he lost control of his motorcycle, which left the road and crashed in a telephone pole situated a few feet from the road leading to Lake Katrine. When he was picked up, he was unconscious. His face was covered with blood which flowed from a cut over the right eye and from his nose and ears.

Dr. Mark O'Meara, who was summoned, removed Marone to the Benedictine Sanitarium, where he was also examined by Dr. John C. O'Leary. They found a fracture at the base of the skull and also that Marone had sustained internal injuries. He remained unconscious until his death. Marone was well known in the vicinity in which he lived and had many friends. He was a member of St. John's Church of East Kingston. He is survived by his wife and one child.

COURT OF APPEALS DECIDES CITY CASE

Affirms Judgment by Which Lower Court Dismissed Suit Against City. Counsel for Accounting and Restitution of Money.

The court of appeals at Albany on Tuesday handed down a decision affirming with costs the judgment of the appellate division of the supreme court in the action for an accounting and restitution of moneys brought by the city of New York against F. J. R. Clarke, as executor of the estate of the late Hon. John J. Linson; Everett Fowler and Augustus H. Van Buren, thereby also affirming the judgment of Judge Cochrane of Hudson, before whom the case was tried and who dismissed the complaint.

The action arose over the conduct of the Ashokan reservoir and Catskill aqueduct proceedings by Senator Linson, Mr. Fowler and Mr. Van Buren. They received and disbursed large sums of money and it was claimed that in making out bills against the city of New York for themselves and their assistants, there had been duplication of items and consequent double payment; that overcharges had been made for other services; both for searching titles to the real estate taken and for trial work; the persons who performed the work not receiving the amount of money for which bills were submitted by counsel, and that other errors had occurred in addition.

The trial of the case lasted several weeks and took place before Judge Cochrane without a jury. Practically all the accounts were introduced in evidence showing the amount of payments which had been made to the three principal counsel who had charge of the condemnation proceedings, and the amount disbursed by them. After the death of Senator Linson, his executor, Mr. Clarke, was substituted as a defendant in his place.

Judge Cochrane decided the case in favor of the defendants. The city of New York appealed the case to the appellate division, which affirmed Judge Cochrane's judgment by a divided court, the court standing two for reversal and three for affirmance. The case was then appealed to the court of appeals, which it was argued several weeks ago. The court of appeals on Tuesday affirmed the judgment of the lower court with costs.

The action was begun by William McEl Sner, special counsel for the city, while Frank L. Polk, now counsel for the department of state, was corporation counsel, following the publication of testimony which was taken in New York city in an investigation conducted by District Attorney, now Governor Whitman. The argument before the court of appeals was made by Mr. Sner on behalf of the city of New York; by Howard Chipp, representing Mr. Clarke; by Judge John G. Van Etten, representing Everett Fowler, and by Alfred D. Van Buren, representing Augustus H. Van Buren. Judge Van Etten was substituted for Amos Van Etten, who was the original attorney in the case for Mr. Fowler.

A few days ago in the City of New York, eminent sociologists, men and women prominent in reform work discuss the greatest temptations confronting young men of today.

John D. Rockefeller, Jacob H. Schiff and Others Discuss the Temptations of Youth.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., said he believed bad companionship the worse temptation of youth.

Jacob H. Schiff said he believed alcohol and liquor are responsible for the downfall of hundreds of thousands of young men.

Another reformer declared frivolous and beautiful women distracted young men from the more serious pursuits of life.

Rev. Thomas Gregory, noted clergyman, declared that the evils of gambling started many on the downward path.

And so on. Different men placed the blame for the downfall of youth upon various temptations.

But—

While these eminent men differed as to the CAUSES they all agreed upon the one REMEDY necessary to combat the forces of evil.

That remedy, all declared, is KNOWLEDGE.

Show a young man what will happen to him if he does not obey the laws of society, of sociology, of hygiene—point out the terrible consequences of his folly—and being forewarned and forearmed by KNOWLEDGE he will know how to resist these temptations.

A certain play will be presented at the Kingston Opera House for three days, beginning Monday May 6th. It deals in dramatic form with THIS VERY SUBJECT which was discussed so recently by those social workers.

The play is called "EXPERIENCE." It was written by George V. Hobart. It takes Youth—or the average young man—and shows ten EPISODES in the life of such a young man. He is shown in each case the evil results from a life of pleasure, recklessness, gambling, debauchery—even crime—this play makes every youth who sees it HESITATE.

In one performance he sees the lesson of a lifetime; in one evening he learns the wisdom of the ages.

You cannot afford to have YOUR BOY miss this play. You cannot afford to have ANYONE YOU LOVE miss such a fine, great, moral, dramatic play.

Let your boy gather KNOWLEDGE by "EXPERIENCE" and thereby be better fitted for his career in life.

NOTE TO KINGSTON THEATRE-GOERS.

"EXPERIENCE," the Most Wonderful Play in America, written by George V. Hobart, will come to the Kingston Opera House for an engagement of three nights, beginning Monday, May 6th. It comes here direct after a phenomenal engagement of five months in Philadelphia—the longest run ever known in the history of that city. It was presented for nine months in New York, five months in Boston and seven months in Chicago. The same company of 22 people which played these other cities now comes to Kingston with the original production of ten big and brilliant scenes.

Prices for this engagement will be identically the same as charged during the run of the play in other cities. Evening, 50c to $1.50. A bargain matinee will be given on Wednesday, when the best seats will be only $1.00. Mail orders, when accompanied by proper remittance, including 10 per cent war tax, will be filled in the order received at the box office of the Kingston Opera House.

Send money order for seats at once, as the history of this play elsewhere shows it always PLAYS TO ABSOLUTELY BOX OFFICE CAPACITY.

Seats will be placed on sale Thursday, May 2nd.

Send 20 cents in stamps to manager "Experience" Company, Kingston Opera House, for 150-page illustrated book of the play. Acting Version.

PRO-CATHEDRAL CALLS REV. LARNED

Some ten days ago the Rev. J. L. Blair Larned, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, this city, was called to South Bethlehem as a candidate as dean of the Pro-Cathedral Church of the Nativity, Bethlehem, Pa. The possibilities which this call to preach at the Pro-Cathedral opened, were a source of grave anxiety to the vestry and parishioners of St. John's Church, which has, under Mr. Larned, reached a state of spiritual influence and efficiency and a numerical and financial condition never attained before. On Tuesday Mr. Larned received the call to the Pro-Cathedral, and while he has not yet accepted the call, it is hardly possible that the vast opportunities offered in this new and rapidly growing field can fail to draw a man of Mr. Larned's ability and vision. Mr. Larned is out of town today and could not be reached by a Freeman reporter, but it is expected that his decision will soon be made.

While the people of St. John's feel that it is indeed an honor that their rector has been called to such a responsible and important charge, and are assured that he will be indeed competent to fill it most acceptably, they also feel the deepest regret that the call should have come while Mr. Larned's work here which has been so much more than satisfactory, should have progressed for so short a time. Mr. Larned has been rector of St. John's Church about a year and a half.

The substantial men of coming years will be those who formed the saving habit in their youth. Start with a Thrift Stamp today.

WILL CALL EXAM FOR WOULD-BE COPS

The local civil service board will hold a regular monthly meeting Friday evening at which time it is expected they will fix a date for holding examination to make up an eligible list for the police department to make an appointment from to fill the vacancy on the police force caused by the death of Officer Boyd.

First Woman Bank Director.

Mrs. Horatio N. Bain of Poughkeepsie was the first woman bank director in that city. She was chosen a director of the Merchants' National Bank in that city Tuesday, taking the membership in the board made vacant by the death of her husband.

Local Druggists Are Offering an "Outside" Treatment on 30 Days' Trial.

Children's Stomachs Are Delicate—Easily Upset by Constant Internal Bloating. The Best Way to Prevent Colds is to Allow the Children Regular Out-Door Exercise—Keep Plenty of Fresh Air in the Bedroom at Night, and at the First Sign of Trouble, Apply the Southern External Vapor Treatment.

Fifteen years ago a North Carolina Druggist discovered a process of combining the old-fashioned remedies, Camphor, Turpentine and Menthol, with certain volatile oils, in salve form, so that when applied over the throat and chest the body heat would release these ingredients in the form of vapors. These vapors, breathed in all night long, carry the medication, with each breath, to the air passages and lungs. In addition, the preparation is absorbed through and stimulates the skin, taking out that tightness and soreness in the chest.

Today this treatment, known as Vick's VapoRub, is universally used throughout the south in preference to internal dosing. By arrangement with the manufacturers the local druggists are offering 25c jars on 30 days' trial, the purchase price to be refunded if you are not delighted with the results.

You have to try VapoRub to realize its remarkable effect, not only for deep chest colds, sore throat, bronchitis or incipient pneumonia, but for head colds, asthmatic or catarrhal troubles. Croup is usually relieved within fifteen minutes and an application at bedtime prevents a night attack.

VapoRub is particularly recommended to mothers with small children as it is externally applied and can therefore be used freely and often with perfect safety on the smallest member of the family.—Advertisement.

ed by the death of Officer Boyd. It is understood the examination will be held some time in May. The present list the police board have is understood not to contain enough names as several on the list have signified their intention of not wanting the job of cop as they have since secured other positions.

UNDERNEATH THE CITY HALL DOME

Police Force Busy with War Gardens To Overcome High Cost of Uniforms—Mr. Cupid On Vacation—Preparing for Election.

"Well what are the police force doing nowadays?" asked the Casual Visitor as he entered the city hall this morning.

"They are busy with their war gardens," replied the City Hall Oracle "but they are getting some fun out of it."

"How is that?" quired the Casual Visitor.

"Well last year Officer Charles Murphy was dubbed and spud king," explained the City Hall Oracle "and he is making every effort to keep up his reputation this year."

"How about Officer P. J. White?" asked the Casual Visitor.

"He is to be reckoned with this year," replied the City Hall Oracle "and he has already started getting his war garden ready."

"I wonder if there are as many marriages in the city as there were before the war?" asked the Casual Visitor, changing the subject.

"Can't say they are," replied the City Hall Oracle "for so far this year only 45 marriage licenses have been issued by the city clerk, while last year for the same period double that number were issued."

"Maybe Young Mr. Cupid is taking a vacation," suggested the Casual Visitor.

"Kinder looks that way," commented the City Hall Oracle "but

City Hall Oracle "that the price has almost doubled lately."

"Then a cop's life is not all roses and honey," remarked the Casual Visitor.

"You bet it is not," replied the City Hall Oracle "but they are getting some fun out of it."

"How is that?" quired the Casual Visitor.

"Well last year Officer Charles Murphy was dubbed and spud king," explained the City Hall Oracle "and he is making every effort to keep up his reputation this year."

"Kinder looks that way," commented the City Hall Oracle "but changing the subject, the city fathers have a big job ahead of them at the May meeting."

"How is that?" asked the Casual Visitor.

"Redistricting the wards for the November election," explained the City Hall Oracle "for the local option election there were 11,146 registered voters and of that number but 9,883 voted."

"How does that compare with 1917?" asked the Casual Visitor.

"In 1917 only the men voted and there were 5,672 votes cast."

"An increase of about 4,000," commented the Casual Visitor.

"It will mean," continued the City Hall Oracle "that about 9 additional polling places will have to be furnished."

"That won't mean two in a ward then," remarked the Casual Visitor.

"Not all of the wards will have to be redistricted, judging from the local option vote," replied the City Hall Oracle.

The Real Test.

"Don't conclude that a man is a patient mortal because you've watched him sitting on a log fishing," said the milk toast philosopher. "Watch him while he's waiting for his supper."

CANTEEN GIRLS UNDER SHELL FIRE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

With the American Army in France, April 23.—(8 p. m.)—Heroines as well as heroes are emerging from the fighting on that part of the western front held by the Americans.

Six American girls—all ensigns in the Salvation Army canteen back of the trenches—had a narrow escape from chlorine gas as well as from shells during the battle of Seicheprey.

Gas shells and bombs of large calibre were hissing and roaring all about. But despite these dangers the workers plodded with their commander to stay and serve hot coffee and cocoa to the men coming out of the first line trenches.

Although the commander admired the pluck of the girls, he was compelled by his duty to order them out of the village.

Some of the girls today told me how they felt under shell fire, while near to the field of actual fighting.

All were cool and collected and army officers are loud in their praise of them. The daring of these Salvation Army girls is a proud record.

The people of the United States are not aware of the dangers nor how close these workers are to the zone of battle and to the "Yanks in steel Stetsons" as the doughboys are coming to be known.

Miss Irene McIntyre, a graduate of Mount Vernon College, New York, said that Friday night was the first in more than a week that the girls did not sleep in dugouts. The German batteries were "rather quiet" that night.

"On Thursday evening we had decided to go to our own beds for a change," said she. "We were billeted in a quaint old cement house, formerly owned by the mayor and the only intact one in the village. Downstairs was occupied chiefly by hens and cows while my sister, myself and other girls occupied the upper apartment."

In the house were Gladys Myrtle Turkington, of South Manchester, Ct., Stella Young of Chelsea, Mass., Gertrude Simmons, Violet Williams, of Racine, Wis., Miss Simmonds and Miss Williams, who have arrived from the states about a week before.

"We were awakened about four o'clock in the morning by the ringing of the old church bell. The shells had started and one of the first ones struck right under the clock. We grabbed our gas masks and put them on and it was not a minute too soon for we certainly got a whiff of the horrible stuff before they were on.

The girls were not a bit frightened. They all took it as a lark and it was certainly funny to see them sitting on the high French beds with their masks on.

"After a while we began to wonder why no 'gas signal' had been sounded, but in a short time the 'All clear' signal was given.

"After a while the girls got restless and wanted to take off their masks. I agreed to take mine off long enough to investigate and get a flashlight.

"The other girls helped me to take it off but no sooner had I done so than I got another whiff. Then more shells came along.

"By daylight ambulances bearing wounded soldiers began to appear around 'Dead Man's Curve.' I wanted to stay and serve refreshments to the wounded soldiers, but the officers in charge of the town held that it was no fit place for women.

We got in a buckboard driven by a sergeant. It was an exciting ride, too. The shells were bursting everywhere.

"The soldiers hated to see us go. They certainly showed great courage in saving our baggage. They sent us away for a rest but we feel like fishes out of water.

Miss McIntyre at this point asked for corroboration and her companions gave hearty assent.

Miss McIntyre had worked for several months among the soldiers back of the first line trenches baking pies and doughnuts for the men and serving hot coffee to them. In her idle moments she played wild violets on the graves of the dead.

The Salvation Army canteens are swarming with men every time the troops are on the move.

Other workers in this branch are Gladys Montyrie and Miss Coria Van Norden, the latter being a member of a wealthy New York family.

MINSTRELS MADE BIG HIT TUESDAY

Musical Military Minstrel, at St. Joseph's School Hall Were Exceptionally Good—Crowd Turned Away—May Be Repeated.

The musical military minstrel show and reception given Tuesday evening in St. Joseph's school hall under the management of the Rev. George G. Murdock and produced under the auspices of the Holy Name Societies of St. Joseph's Church was one of the best amateur shows seen in Kingston in some time.

There was a record breaking attendance and many had to be turned away as there was no room for them in the hall. Due to that fact it is expected that the performance may be repeated at a later date. It was a success both financially and artistically.

The following fine program was rendered without a hitch:

Columbia Grafonolas & Records At the Front

"They were nervous and restless"

—huddled in the dugout, waiting for the gray dawn that was to send them over the top. I would wind the Grafonola, slip on the record of the 'Humoresque'—and as the soft, sweet, haunting strains floated out, I'd watch the grim faces relax; and the tense mood pass.

"Again—in a shattered Belgian village—a group of American lads—truck drivers going up to the front—would be caught and held by a tornado of shellfire. There was nothing to keep them occupied; to leave the hut was certain death—we'd play band music on the Columbia, lively selections that would take their minds off of the whine and screech of shells outside.

"We had 120 Columbia Grafonolas in our 'farthest up' huts. Over 300 Grafonolas and 5,000 records were in use in the Canadian area alone. They were an important part of our equipment."

These extracts from a letter from Captain H. A. Pearson, Senior Officer, Y. M. C. A., with the Canadian Expeditionary Force in France, paint vividly the part played by the Columbia Grafonola in the grim events "over there."

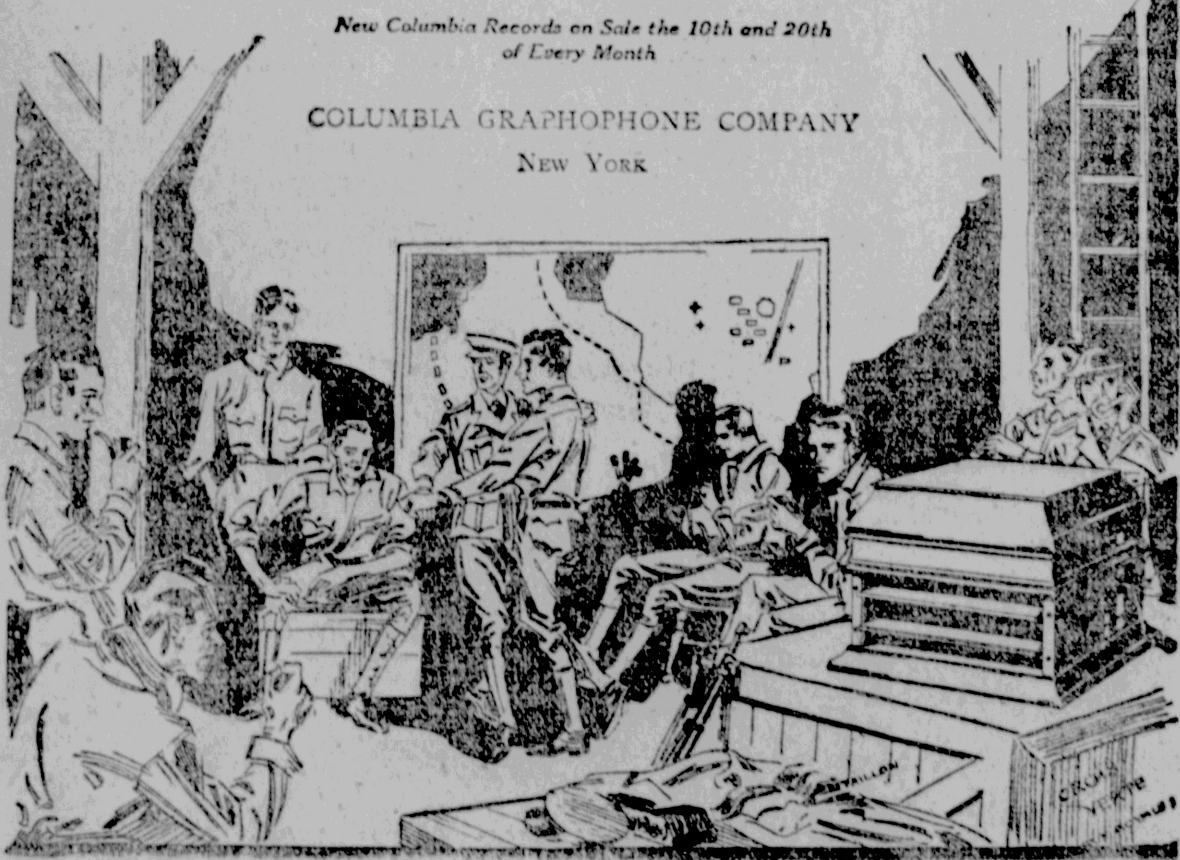

Captain Pearson, who was invalided last June, after being severely wounded when his hut was destroyed by shellfire, writes, "Give your soldier tobacco; give him music—"

Ladies' Aid Society of Rondout Presbyterian Church Held Annual Meeting, Elected Officers and Decided to Buy Liberty Bond.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Rondout Presbyterian Church was held Tuesday afternoon in the chapel at which time the following officers were re-elected for the ensuing year: President, Miss Katherine O. Van Kuren; vice president, Miss John A. Hubne; secretary, Miss Sarah Huber; and treasurer, Miss George Deane. The society decided to hold its annual turkey dinner and fair some time in November. It was also decided to purchase a $100 Liberty Bond. The meeting was well attended. The society is a flourishing condition with money in the treasury, an active organization, and officers in whom they have confidence.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Hudson-Davis.

Miss Florence Davis, one of Highland's popular young ladies, was quietly married Monday to George Hudson of Towners at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Davis, in Milton, avenue, Highland. The bride was becomingly dressed in white silk with bead trimmings. Rev. Coons, pastor of the M. E. Church, performed the ceremony.

Brittelle-Fraleigh.

Herman Miller Brittelle of No. 97 Hudson street and Miss Gladys Marian Fraleigh of No. 104 Main street, were united in marriage on Monday at Albany by the Rev. Ernest M. Grain of that city. They were attended by Blanche D. Freer and Randall W. Freer. Both bride and groom are popular young people and have the well wishes of a host of friends for a long and happy married life.

Olympian Club.

The Olympian Club met on Monday evening at the home of Miss Hull and found the evening's program especially enjoyable and full of interest. The roll call consisted of brief accounts of "What I Have Learned From My Study of the Indian Character as Portrayed by Cooper," given by Miss Goodsell. "The Attack on the Block House," by Cooper, was given by Miss Hull.

ABOUT THE FOLKS.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert T. Skelton of Weehawken are visiting at the home of his mother, Mrs. James R. Skelton, No. 23 Grove street.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Doyle are receiving congratulations over the arrival of an eight pound baby boy at their home, No. 70 Hunter street. Mother and child are doing nicely.

Mrs. Benjamin Burnett of Saugerties, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Benedictine Sanitarium, by Dr. Mark O'Meara, returned to her home on Tuesday.

Square Bottom Round Top

That's the shape of the fire pot in Square Pot Boilers. This exclusive construction is a big step in advance of all other designs of boilers. Radiating surface is increased, heat is in direct and close contact with water-containing sections, and grate bars are all of same length. This allows quick clearance and prevents clogging. Square Pot Boilers steam quickly and require less attention than other kinds.

They are made of highest quality materials by expert workmen and designed on scientifically correct, practically proven heating principles. Consult your dealer or write direct to us. No matter what your requirements are, there's a Square Pot Boiler or Furnace to fill them.

Painless Dentistry

The difference between painless and painful dentistry depends upon the carefulness and skillfulness of the operator. With good instruments, fresh medicines, local anaesthetics and nitrous oxide gas a careful and skillful dentist can perform all operations painlessly, even to the extraction of teeth.

Painless methods, earnest endeavor and reasonable prices have in thirty years, made the Cady Dental Corporation the largest dental organization in New York state.

C. OF C. SMOKER
THURSDAY NIGHT

The Chamber of Commerce members are looking forward to a delightful evening on the occasion of the "smoker" and lecture at the Elks' auditorium Thursday night. This is the first social affair of the entire membership since Secretary Heermans took charge.

It is planned for the directors to gather at the Stayviant Hotel at 7:45, where they will meet Ellis L. Howland of New York city, a noted speaker on economic subjects. From there they will go to the Elks' hall, 204 Fair street, where the membership will be assembled.

President Herbert will preside, R.

E. Leighton will make a short preliminary talk, then will follow Mr. Howland's address which has been widely and favorably spoken of throughout the country. The Rotarians will furnish some snappy music under the leadership of Harry P. Dodge.

Each member of the Chamber has been provided with two special guest tickets and in addition to the 350 members, it is expected that there will be a number of guests who are not members in attendance on this occasion.

A social hour will also be enjoyed during the evening and altogether it is a promising affair. Through the courtesy of the B. P. O. E. No. 550, the house committee has again placed the hall at the disposal of the Chamber of Commerce, which the directors and membership heartily appreciate.

HIGH FALLS.

High Falls, April 24.—Miss Juanita Van Wageningen of Kingston spent the past week end at her home. Mrs. Cinderella Deput called at the home of Miss Mary C. Van Wageningen on Friday afternoon of the past week.

Mrs. Levi Atkins of Accord is visiting at the home of Mrs. Jacob Delamater.

A number from this place attended the play entitled, "Civilization," at Rosendale the past Saturday evening. Wilmer Church of Poughkeepsie is visiting relatives in this place.

There were fourteen present at the Red Cross meeting the past Saturday and a great amount of work was accomplished.

Miss Theda Gillespie, who attends Oneonta Normal, returned to school on Monday, after her Easter vacation.

The Ladies' Missionary Society met the past Thursday afternoon. The annual election of officers took place at this meeting. All the officers were re-elected: President, Mrs. Oscar Church; vice-president, Mrs. Thomas Snyder; secretary, Miss Elizabeth Krom; treasurer, Mrs. J. M. Barnhart.

VICTORY MENUS.

These menus, planned to conserve time, labor and money, to save the foods that are scarce and use those of which there is an abundance, are Victory Menus in more senses than one. They are prepared by the Department of Home Economics of the State College of Agriculture and endorsed by the New York State Food Commission.

Thursday.

Breakfast—Stewed rhubarb with raisins; samp cooked in fireless cooker; top milk, hominy or rice crispies; coffee.

Lunch or Supper—Individual baked eggs with cheese; scalloped potatoes; maple oat cake; tea.

Dinner—Lamb chops; brown sauce; steamed potatoes; buttered onions; fruited gelatin; top milk.

Milk for the children to drink at each meal.

(May be omitted and still leave a balanced meal.)

Although gelatin usually appears in the guise of a dessert, it is a very good food. It is a meat saver and when it is eaten with meat, milk or eggs, not so much of these more valuable foods is needed. Gelatin is expensive now, but it has an advantage over many other desserts in that it requires no wheat flour in its preparation.

Hominy or Rice Crispies.

One cup cold hominy or rice; 1 egg well beaten, salt.

Heat the hominy with a little water or beat until soft. Beat in the yolk of the egg, and lastly add the stiffly beaten white. Drop by spoonful in a buttered tin and bake in a hot oven.

Individual Baked Eggs With Cheese.

Eggs, salt and pepper to taste, chopped parsley, chopped chives, milk, crated cheese, bread crumbs. Take individual ramekins, butter them and break 2 eggs into each; season with salt, pepper, parsley and chives. All 4 tablespoons of milk, cover with grated cheese and a few bread crumbs and bake until the eggs are set. Serve hot.

Maple Oat Cake

One cup maple sugar, 1/4 cup fat, 1 cup wheat flour, 1/2 cup oat flour, 2 tablespoons baking powder, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1 egg, 1/2 cup water.

Cream the sugar and the butter. Add egg yolk and mix thoroughly.

Sift wheat and oat flour together and combine with the baking powder and salt. Alternate water and flour mixture, add beaten white egg last. Bake in a moderate oven.

Recipes for any of the dishes in these menus which cannot be found in cook books, may be had by writing to the Department of Home Economics, State College of Agriculture, Ithaca, N. Y.

WEST PARK.

Mrs. Harry Payne Bingham is expected at her summer home on Monday, where it is hoped that she will remain during the greater part of the summer.

William Schickel, Ernest Schickel and James Sloan of Poughkeepsie, were at the Hillside bungalow on Sunday.

Miss Margaret O'Brien leaves this week to take a course in nursing at St. Vincent Hospital.

Miss Helen Mitchell expects to enter a convent in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Ackert entertained relatives from Walden for the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Drake spent Sunday with Mrs. Drake's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Luke O'Connor.

Mr. and Mrs. Josephus Benjamin celebrated their tenth anniversary with a dance on Saturday evening.

Frank Green, marine on our good ship, Leviathan, visited his parents on Sunday. He has crossed the tide 2 or 3 times and has the true "roll" of a sailor.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Ackert, Jr., spent Saturday with their West Park relatives.

Vincent Travis after a brief visit at his home here, has returned to Tarrytown.

The Rev. Richard C. Searing, rector of Ascension Church, has preached two sermons recently upon the patriotic duty of buying Liberty

Bonds. He believes that this is positively the safest and best investment in sight today.

Mrs. Eliza J. Burroughs celebrated her birthday on Saturday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Atkins.

THE VLY.

The Vly, April 23.—Aaron Bush is having his garage built for his auto. I suppose it will not be long before we will see Mr. Bush owning one.

Mr. and Mrs. Hazzie Trowbridge were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Krom Monday evening.

Henry Krom is in very poor health at this writing.

Mrs. Moses Van Demark went for a walk Friday and called to see H. Krom who is very sick.

Della Christiana called on Mrs. Luther Trowbridge Friday.

The farmers are very busy plowing and getting their ground ready to sow their grain as it is getting late.

We have had so much rain of late it has kept them back quite a lot.

Anybody who would like to get some hay at a reasonable price please call on Mrs. Hazzie Trowbridge of The Vly. Address Stone Ridge, R. F. D. No. 1, Box 87.

Russel Trowbridge and son Nathan and M. Palen called on Mr. Trowbridge's father in this place Thursday.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The military training class at the Y. M. C. A. is proving very popular and several young men are taking advantage of the opportunity of learning some of the inside information of military drill. The men were unanimous in voting to have the drill twice a week instead of once a week. Beginning this week the drill will be given on Monday evenings at eight o'clock and Tuesday evenings at seven o'clock. There is room for a number of other men desiring this training.

Two schools have sent in their entry fee for the Baseball League. No entries will be received after Saturday, April 27. Send entry to the boys' department of Y. M. C. A. The Y. M. C. A. has been granted exclusive use of the grounds on O'Reilly street again this year.

Cottekill, April 24.—We have been advised that there is one family living in this village who are either so ignorant or unpatriotic that they have not advanced their clocks ahead the hour requested by the government. It was with regret that we print this.

The meeting night of the Jr. O. U. A. M. lodge has been changed from Saturday evening until Thursday evening; so the next meeting will be on Thursday evening, April 25, at eight o'clock and every Thursday evening thereafter.

We sincerely request and hope that every one will subscribe for as large a Liberty Bond as is consistent, thereby doing their share in assisting the few boys who have given up all pleasures and gone to protect this little hamlet.

BEFORE COUNTY JUDGE JENKINS

Arthur Markle Brings Action Against Zachary Osborne to Foreclose a Mortgage—Echo of Interesting Case Tried in Supreme Court.

The action brought by Arthur Markle against Zachary Osborne, both of Mombacous, to foreclose a mortgage on some property in that place, was heard before County Judge Jenkins Tuesday at his chambers. After some testimony had been taken the matter was adjourned until May 5 at 10 o'clock.

This case is an echo of a case tried in the December term of the supreme court here, in which Zachary Osborne brought suit against Mrs. Cornelia J. Terwilliger, over 50 years old, of Mombacous, and was awarded a verdict of $1,777.50 by the jury.

In order to understand the present action it will be necessary to briefly review the first case just mentioned.

Osborne in his suit against Mrs. Terwilliger, alleged that November 12, 1915, he bought a farm from Mrs. Terwilliger; this farm being located at Mombacous, town of Rochester, about three or four miles from Kerhonkson.

Osborne alleged that after Mrs. Terwilliger sold the property she wanted it back and that she coaxed him to sell it back to her, and that he refused.

On the night of November 12, a year after the sale the barn and the wagon shed were destroyed by fire. It was claimed that Mrs. Terwilliger was seen in the vicinity of the fire shortly after it was discovered and that she gave no good reason for her presence.

It was also claimed that a few days after the fire Mrs. Terwilliger confessed to George W. Dumont and William Geary that she set the barn on fire.

Facts in This Action.

At the time that Mrs. Terwilliger sold the property to Osborne she took the mortgage back for part of the purchase price. This was in November 12, 1915. On November 12, 1916 the property was burned.

The latter part of December, 1916 after the fire, Mrs. Terwilliger assigned this mortgage to Arthur Markle. Markle is now bringing this action to foreclose the mortgage.

The defense is that Mrs. Terwilliger burned the property, and that Osborne has a counter claim for the judgment secured against Mrs. Terwilliger.

Judge John G. Van Etten and John R. DeVany appeared for Markle; County Attorney John W. Eckert for Osborne.

Mr. Dumont and Mr. Geary were called at the hearing Tuesday and their testimony was along the same lines as given at the trial of the action brought by Osborne against Mrs. Terwilliger.

Dumont and Geary told of Mrs. Terwilliger's alleged admission of setting the barn on fire.

Attorney Frank W. Brooks testified of an alleged conversation at the Stuyvesant Hotel between George Merline Markle and Mr. Brooks. It is alleged that Markle said at this time words to this effect: "The old lady fired the building but I will never do anything about it."

Bever Slight who is employed at Dumont, N. Y., spent the week end at his home on Schryver street.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barton of Union Hill N. J. are guests of relatives here for a few days.

Grover Hotelling of Broadway went to Albany on business Monday.

Hudler Cemetery Officials Elected.

At a meeting of those interested in improving the Hudler Cemetery at Mt. Tremper, held last Saturday it was decided to acquire title to the cemetery and also to an additional strip of land immediately adjoining and power was given to the newly elected officers to have the association incorporated. The following were elected officers: Frank Ecker president, Madison Longyear, vice-president, Herbert Spencer, secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Herbert Spencer, assistant secretary. A board of trustees was elected as follows: Calvin Satterlee, for 5 years; George Benjamin, for 4 years; Horace Myers, for 3 years; John H. Garrison, for 2 years; and William Wimp, for 1 year.

It was suggested that possibly some desire to improve their plots be incorporated on Day and that the association would gladly have them do so.

Phrenological.

An odd reminder says the Independent, of the days when phrenology was popular as a means of "reading character," with a six dig at the "condemnation" of its professors to give complimentary explanations of the "bumps," is found in a letter from Elizabeth Barrett Browning advertised for sale in a London bookseller's catalogue. It reads in part: "Do you believe in phrenology? Did you ever consult a phrenologist? and did it answer, 'My seal, then art invincible?'"

JUDGE CLEARWATER LOANED HIS SILVER

His Collection of Paul Revere's Pieces Used in Lecture to the Blind in New York City Last Week.

A unique and probably unparalleled address in favor of the blind was given in New York last week by Mrs. William Howe grand-daughter of the celebrated Dr. Samuel Gridley Howe, the Boston philanthropist who did so much for the blind and who achieved a world-wide reputation by educating Laura Bridgman. Mrs. Howe spoke to several hundred totally blind persons upon patriotic subjects. Paul Revere was a noted American patriot.

The committee having the matter at hand asked Judge Clearwater to loan to them some pieces of Paul Revere's silver, made by the famous silversmith who lived in the old city of Boston. The judge loaned them a collection of the seven hundred pieces of silver in his collection. Mrs. Howe said that it was a privilege to see the gentle care with which the pieces were handled. She said that she had never seen the world think and talk for years in the past.

Many of these blind people are wealthy and subscribed liberally to the new Elmerie loan. There are many hundreds of blind men and women in New York but it is extremely difficult to care them together as they are shy and sensitive. In making the loan Judge Clearwater wrote that if at any time he could be of any service in future pleasure to any one who was blind or deaf, the committee and he would be glad to do so.

GERMAN PROPAGANDA IN WOODSTOCK

The Patriotic Service League of Woodstock reports that friends of Germany have been, and still are, busy in the locality. It sends our warning to all loyal citizens of the United States to beware of them and of their dangerous activities.

It is not difficult to identify them; they say and do. They wish to prevent the full strength of the country from being brought against Germany. Whatever is said which has many, this for its object is to be distrusted. They say that the war will end soon so there is no use to prepare for its continuance. Those who are in a position to know most, believe that the war will go on for several years.

They say that there is an over-production of certain crops so it is not necessary to plant them. Potatoes for example were produced they say too abundantly last year and are entailing a loss on the planter, so they advise farmers to plant very few this year.

They say there is plenty of wheat in the country so there is no need to be economical with it, that saving food is entirely unnecessary. In consequence certain of our citizens have been lately feeding bread-making grains to farm stock. Those who are in a position to know most believe that it is only by the most rigid food conservation and by increased production that we will be saved from ration cards and actual hunger.

In the warring countries in Europe about 4,750,000 have been killed by starvation since the war began and about 4,250,000 killed by fighting.

They throw discredit upon the President and his administration. He is the only person empowered to lead us in the present crisis. There should be no attempt to precipitate partisan politics now. We must pull together if we are to win the war.

They repeat stories of government inefficiency of which they have no proof. They discourage the buying of thrift stamps and Liberty Bonds. They repeat stories about hears and to prevent its further circulation.

These things are first said by some friend of Germany. Often he is paid by the German government to Courtesies of the Match.

There were the usual courtesies of precedence in the use of the match. "It's very English," said the man in the corner. "In Scandinavia you can tell the nationality of a man by the way he holds his cigarette. A Swede strikes a match, uses it and throws it away. A Dane uses the match first and then offers it to you. ## Our War and We Must Win It

In a recent address in Chicago a prominent American business man said:

"Our war vessels have been destroyed, our soldiers and sailors killed and captured, and our casualty lists are being published, yet in the face of this we go on from day to day, living in an atmosphere of smug peace, making the war effort that comes to us, that is forced upon us, even as if we refused to realize that this is our war and we alone must win it."

Now is the time, before some fearful disaster overtakes us, to shake off this dangerous lethargy, to rouse ourselves from this false dream of peace and safety, to awake to a full realization of the gigantic task we have undertaken, and the dread menace under which we rest. The "effort which is forced upon us" is not enough.

There must be universal, spontaneous, unstinted and unlimited effort if we are to win this war. There must be an overwhelming investment in Liberty Bonds.

UNDERNEATH THE CITY HALL DOME

Police Force Busy with War Gardens To Overcome High Cost of Uniform—Mr. Cupid On Vacation—Preparing for Election.

Well what are the police force doing "today?" asked the Casual Visitor as he entered the city hall this morning.

"They are busy with their war gardens," replied the City Hall Oracle, "but they are taking a little time to prepare for election."

"Preparing to beat old Mr. High Cost of Living," commented the Casual Visitor.

"In a way," replied the City Hall Oracle, "but they are taking a little time to prepare for election."

"How is that?" asked the Casual Visitor.

"Why they tell me," explained the

City Hall Oracle, "that the price has almost doubled lately."

"There a cop's life is not all roses and honey," remarked the Casual Visitor.

"You bet it is not," replied the City Hall Oracle, "but they are getting some fun out of it."

"How is that?" quizzed the Casual Visitor.

"Well last year Officer Charles Murphy was dubbed and sold king explained the City Hall Oracle, "and he is making every effort to keep up his reputation this year."

"How about Officer J. J. White?" asked the Casual Visitor.

"He is to be reckoned with this year," replied the City Hall Oracle, "and he has already started getting his war garden ready."

"I wonder if there are as many marriages in the city as there were before the war?" asked the Casual Visitor, changing the subject.

"Can't say they are," replied the City Hall Oracle, "for so far this year only 45 marriage licenses have been issued."

"That is a record," remarked the Casual Visitor, "last year for the same period double that number were issued."

"Maybe Young Mr. Cupid is taking a vacation," suggested the Casual Visitor.

"Kicker looks that way," commented the City Hall Oracle, "but changing the subject, the city fathers have a lot to do about it at the May meeting."

"How is that?" asked the Casual Visitor.

"By districting the wards for the November election," explained the City Hall Oracle, "for the local option election there were 11,146 registered voters and of that number but 5,583 voted."

"How does that compare with 1917?" asked the Casual Visitor.

"In 1917 only the men voted and there were 5,672 votes cast."

"An increase of only 1000," commented the Casual Visitor.

"It still means," continued the City Hall Oracle, "that about 4 additional polling places will have to be furnished."

"That won't mean too in a ward then," remarked the Casual Visitor.

"Not all of the wards will have to be redistricted, judging from the local option vote," replied the City Hall Oracle.

CANTEEN GIRLS UNDER SHELL FIRE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

With the American Army in France, April 23—(5 p. m.)—Heroines as well as heroes are emerging from the fighting on that part of the western front held by the Americans.

Six American girls—all ensigns in the Salvation Army canteen back of the trenches—had a narrow escape from chlorine gas as well as from shells during the battle of Seicheprey.

Gas shells and bombs of large calibre were hissing and roaring all about. But despite these dangers the workers pleaded with their commander to stay and serve hot coffee and cocoa to the men coming out of the first line trenches.

Although the commander admired the pluck of the girls, he was compelled by his duty to order them out of the pillbox.

Some of the girls today told me how they felt under shell fire, while near to the field of actual fighting.

All were cool and collected and army officers are loud in their praise of them. The daring of these Salvation Army girls is a proud record.

The people in the United States are not aware of the dangers nor how close these workers are to the zone of battle and to the "Yanks in steel" as the doughboys are coming to be known.

Miss Irene McIntyre, a graduate of Mount Vernon College, New York, said that Friday night was the first in more than a week that the girls did not sleep in dugouts. The German batteries were "rather quiet" that night.

On Thursday evening we had decided to go to our own beds for a change, said she. "We were billeted in a quaint old crenel house, formerly owned by the mayor and the only intact one in the village. Downstairs was occupied chiefly by hens and cows while my sister, myself and other girls occupied the upper apartment."

In the house were Gladys Myrre, Turkington, of South Manchester, Ct.; Stella Young, of Chelsea, Mass.; Gertrude Sumner, Violet Williams, of Racine, Wis.; Miss Simmonds and Miss Williams, who have arrived from the states about a week before.

"We were awakened about four o'clock in the morning by the ringing of the old church bell. The shelling had started and one of the first ones struck right under the clock. We grabbed our gas masks and put them on and it was not a minute too soon for we certainly got a whiff of the horrible stuff before they were on. The girls were not a bit frightened. They all took it as a lark and it was certainly funny to see them sitting on the high French beds with their masks on."

"After a while the girls got restless and wanted to take off their masks. I agreed to take mine off long enough to investigate and get a flashlight."

"The other girls helped me to take it off but no sooner had I done so than I got another whiff. Then more shells came along."

"By daylight ambulances bearing wounded soldiers began to appear around 'Dead Man's Curve.' I wanted to stay and serve refreshments to the wounded soldiers but the officers in charge of the town held that it was no fit place for women. We got in a backboard driven by a sergeant. It was an exciting ride. The shells were bursting everywhere."

The soldiers hated to see us. They certainly showed great courage in saving our baggage. They sent us away for a rest but we feel like fishes out of water."

Miss McIntyre at this point asked for corroboration and her companions gave hearty assent.

Miss McIntyre had worked for several months among the soldiers back of the first line trenches baking pies and doughnuts for the men and serving hot coffee to them. In her idle moments she placed wild violets on the graves of the dead.

The Salvation Army canteens are swarming with men every time the troops are on the move.

Other workers in this branch are Gladys McIntyre and Miss Cora Van Norden, the latter being a member of a wealthy New York family.

MINSTRELS MADE BIG HIT TUESDAY

Musical Military Minstrel at St. Joseph's School Hall Were Exceptionally Good—Crowd Turned Away—May Be Repeated.

The musical military minstrel show and reception given Tuesday evening in St. Joseph's school hall under the management of the Rev. George G. Murdock and produced under the auspices of the Holy Name Society of St. Joseph's Church was one of the best amateur shows seen in Kingston in some time. There was a record breaking attendance and many had to be turned away as there was no room for them in the hall. Due to that fact it is expected that the performance may be repeated at a later date. It was a success both financially and artistically.

"They were nervous and restless"

—huddled in the dugout, waiting for the gray dawn that was to send them over the top. I would wind the Grafonola, slip on the record of the "Humoresque"—and as the soft, sweet, haunting strains floated out, I'd watch the grim faces relax, and the tense mood pass.

"Again—in a shattered Belgian village—a group of American lads—truck drivers going up to the front—would be caught and held by a tornado of shellfire. There was nothing to keep them occupied; to leave the hut was certain death—we'd play band music on the Columbia, lively selections that would take their minds off the war."

"We had two Columbia Grafonolas in our 'farthest up' huts. Over 300 Grafonolas and 5,000 records were in use in the Canadian area alone. They were an important part of our equipment."

There extracts from a letter from Captain H. A. Pearson, Senior Officer, Y. M. C. A., with the Canadian Expeditionary Force in France, point vividly the part played by the Columbia Grafonola in the grim events "over there."

Captain Pearson, who was invalided last June, after being severely wounded when his hut was destroyed by shellfire, writes, "Give your soldier tobacco, give him music."

Ladies' Aid Society of Roundout Presbyterian Church Held Annual Meeting, Elected Officers and Decided to Buy Liberty Bond.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Roundout Presbyterian Church was held Tuesday afternoon in the chapel at which time the following officers were re-elected for the ensuing year: President, Miss Katherine O. Van Keuren; vice president, Miss John A. Huhn; secretary, Miss Sarah Huber; and treasurer, Miss George Dendy. The society decided to hold its annual turkey dinner and fair some time in November. It was also decided to purchase a $100 Liberty Bond. The meeting was well attended. The society is in a flourishing condition with money in the treasury, an active organization, and officers in whom they have confidence.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Hudson-Davis.
Miss Florence Davis, one of Highland's popular young ladies, was quietly married Monday to George Hinson of Towners at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Davis, in Milton, avenue, Highland. The bride was becomingly dressed in white silk with bead trimmings. Rev. Coons, pastor of the M. E. Church, performed the ceremony.

Britcliffe-Fraleigh.
Herman Miller Britcliffe of No. 97 Hudson street and Miss Gladys Marian Fraleigh of No. 104 Main street, were united in marriage on Monday at Albany by the Rev. Ernest M. Grahn of that city. They were attended by Blanche D. Freer and Randall W. Freer. Both bride and groom are popular young people and have the well wishes of a host of friends for a long and happy married life.

Olympian Club.
The Olympian Club met on Monday evening at the home of Miss Hull and found the evening's program especially enjoyable and full of interest. The roll call consisted of brief accounts of "What I Have Learned From My Study of the Indian Character as Portrayed by Parkman," given by Miss R. Finn; and "What I Have Learned From My Study of Indian Character as Portrayed by Cooper," given by Miss Goodsell. "The Attack on the Block House," by Cooper, was given by Miss Hull.

ABOUT THE FOLKS.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert T. Skelton of Westbury are visiting at the home of his mother, Mrs. James R. Skelton, No. 23 Grove street.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Doyle are receiving congratulations over the arrival of an eight pound baby boy at their home, No. 70 Hunter street. Mother and child are doing nicely.

Mrs. Benjamin Burnett of Saugerties, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Brundage Sanitarium, by Dr. Mark O'Meara, returned to her home on Tuesday.

TAXPAYERS WILL SUBMIT PLAN

The Kingston Taxpayers' Association will hold a special meeting at 8 o'clock this evening at which time it is expected that a plan will be presented with reference to the elimination of the Broadway crossing of the West Shore railroad. The association has expressed itself as deeply interested in the problem of the Broadway crossing and hopes that there will be a large attendance of taxpayers.

C. OF C. SMOKER
THURSDAY NIGHT

The Chamber of Commerce members are looking forward to a delightful evening on the occasion of the "smoker" and lecture at the Elks' auditorium Thursday night. This is the first social affair of the entire membership since Secretary Heermann took charge.

It is planned for the directors to gather at the Stuyvesant Hotel at 7:45, where they will meet Ellis L. Howland of New York city, a noted speaker on economic subjects. From there they will go to the Elks' hall, 204 Fair street, where the membership will be assembled.

President Herbert will preside. R.

E. Leighton will make a short preliminary talk, then will follow Mr. Howland's address which has been widely and favorably spoken of throughout the country. The Rotarians will furnish some snappy music under the leadership of Harry P. Dodge.

Each member of the Chamber has been provided with two special guest tickets and in addition to the 350 members, it is expected that there will be a number of guests who are not members in attendance on this occasion.

A social hour will also be enjoyed during the evening and altogether it is a promising affair. Through the courtesy of the U. P. O. E. No. 536, the house committee has again placed the hall at the disposal of the Chamber of Commerce, which the directors and membership heartily appreciate.

HIGH FALLS.

VICTORY MENUS.

These menus, planned to conserve time, labor and money, to save the foods that are scarce and use those of which there is an abundance, are Victory Menus in more senses than one. They are prepared by the Department of Home Economics of the State College of Agriculture and endorsed by the New York State Food Commission.

Thursday.

Breakfast—Stewed rhubarb with raisins; samp cooked in fireless cooker; top milk, hominy or rice-crisps; coffee.

Lunch or Supper—Individual baked eggs with cheese; scalloped potatoes; maple oat cake, tea.

Dinner—Lamb chops; brown sauce; steamed potatoes; "battered onions"; fruited gelatin; top milk.

Milk for the children to drink at each meal.

(May be omitted and still leave a balanced meal.)

Although gelatin usually appears in the guise of a dessert, it is a very good food. It is a meat saver and when it is eaten with meat, milk or eggs, not so much of these more valuable foods is needed. Gelatin is expensive now, but it has an advantage over many other desserts in that it requires no wheat flour in its preparation.

Hominy or Rice Crisps.

One cup cold hominy or rice; 1 egg well beaten, salt.

Heat the hominy with a little water and beat until soft. Beat in the yolk of the egg, and lastly add the stiffly beaten white. Drop by spoonfuls in a buttered tin and bake in a hot oven.

Individual Baked Eggs With Cheese.

Eggs, salt and pepper to taste, chopped parsley, chopped chives, milk, creamed cheese, bread crumbs.

Take individual ramekins, butter them and break 2 eggs into each; season with salt, pepper, parsley and chives. All 4 tablespoons of milk, cover with grated cheese and a few patriotic duty of buying Liberty bread crumbs and bake until the eggs are set. Serve hot.

Maple Oat Cake

One cup maple sugar, 1/4 cup fat, 1 cup wheat flour, 1/2 cup oat flour, 2 tablespoons baking powder, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1 egg, 1/2 cup water.

Cream the sugar and the butter. Add egg yolk and mix thoroughly. Sift wheat and oat flour together and combine with the baking powder and salt. Alternate water and flour mixture, add beaten white egg last. Bake in a moderate oven.

Recipes for any of the dishes in these menus which cannot be found in cook books may be had by writing to the Department of Home Economics, State College of Agriculture, Ithaca, N. Y.

WEST PARK.

Mrs. Harry Payne Bingham is expected at her summer home on Monday, where it is hoped that she will remain during the greater part of the summer.

William Schickel, Ernest Schickel and James Sloan of Poughkeepsie, were at the Hillside bungalow on Sunday.

Miss Margaret O'Brien leaves this week to take a course in nursing at St. Vincent Hospital.

Miss Helen Mitchell expects to enter a convent in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Ackert entertained relatives from Walden for the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Drake spent Sunday with Mrs. Drake's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Luke O'Connor.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Benjamin celebrated their tenth anniversary with a dance on Saturday evening.

Frank Green, marine on our good ship, Leviathan, visited his parents on Sunday. He has crossed the tide 2 or 3 times and has the true "roll" of a sailor.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Ackert, Jr., spent Saturday with their West Park relatives.

Vincent Travis after a brief visit at his home here, has returned to Tarrytown.

The Rev. Richard C. Seering, rector of Ascension Church, has preached two sermons recently upon the patriotic duty of buying Liberty

Bonds. He believes that this is positively the safest and best investment in sight today.

Mrs. Eliza J. Burroughs celebrated her birthday on Saturday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Atkins.

THE VLY.

The Vly. April 23.—Aaron Bush is having his garage built for his auto. I suppose it will not be long before we will see Mr. Bush owning one.

Mr. and Mrs. Hattie Trowbridge were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Krom Monday evening.

Henry Krom is in very poor health at this writing.

Mrs. Moses Van Demark went for a walk Friday and called to see H. Krom who is very sick.

Della Christiansa called on Mrs. Luther Trowbridge Friday.

The farmers are very busy plowing and getting their ground ready to sow their grain as it is getting late. We have had so much rain of late it has kept them back quite a lot.

Anybody who would like to get some hay at a reasonable price please call on Mrs. Hattie Trowbridge of the Vly. Address Stone Ridge, R. F. D. No. 1, Box 87.

Russel Trowbridge and son Nathan and M. Palen called on Mr. Trowbridge's father in this place Thursday.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The military training class at the Y. M. C. A. is proving very popular and several young men are taking advantage of the opportunity of learning some of the inside information of military drill. The men were unanimous in voting to have the drill twice a week instead of once a week. Beginning this week the drill will be given on Monday evenings at eight o'clock and Tuesday evenings at seven o'clock. There is room for a number of other men desiring this training.

Two schools have sent in their entry fee for the Bagball League. No entries will be received after Saturday, April 27. Send entry to the boys' department of Y. M. C. A. The Y. M. C. A. has been granted exclusive use of the grounds on O'Reilly street again this year.
